
DISPUTE OVER RATE MEASURE.

Want Courts to Review Acts of Commission.

Tillman Thinks Pullman Cars Should be Favored.

House Committee May Appeal to the Senate.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—With all sorts of compromises rumored, the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce today resumed consideration of railroad rate bills. The rupture in the committee yesterday was smoothed over temporarily, at least Senator Clapp, however, was not present today. Certain opponents of the House bill have suggested an amendment, which would stand, at least, as a compromise. The amendment would amount to a test proceeding and have a bearing on all subsequent orders of the commission. In effect this would mean that after the constitutionality of the powers given the commission had been determined by the highest court, nothing would stand, at least, as a compromise. The amendment would mean that after the constitutionality of the powers given the commission had been determined by the highest court, nothing would stand, at least, as a compromise. WANTS PULLMAN EXEMPTED.

Senator Tillman offered an amendment to exempt Pullman cars and express companies. He said that in view of the uncertainty as to whether they would be included in the definition of transportation lines, he would offer the amendment to make certain that they would be. No vote was taken on the amendment today.

Republican members of the committee, with the exception of Senators Doolittle and Clapp, who are committed to the House bill, are expected to attend a conference following the meeting of the committee. They endeavored to draft an amendment to the bill, which would be likely to receive the favorable consideration of the opponents of the bill. The amendment would be likely to receive the favorable consideration of the opponents of the bill. The amendment would be likely to receive the favorable consideration of the opponents of the bill.

CONSUL DAVIDSON OF ANTUNG OUT.

POOR SALARY COSTS CONSULAR SERVICE A GOOD MAN.

Has Drawn on Private Funds for Nine Years, but Feels Unable to Keep It Up Longer—Will Devote His Time to Literary Pursuits from Now On.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Opposition in Congress to an improved consular service with permanent tenure of office has caused the loss to the consular service of one of its most efficient and experienced officers by the resignation, announced by letter to the Department of State today, of James W. Davidson, Consul at Antung, Manchuria, who, after a service of nine years, retired because of his inability to longer draw on his private income to maintain the consulate.

Mr. Davidson in his letter of resignation says that the salary at each of the consulates he has served has been too small to conduct in a satisfactory way the several offices he has field, and had he not possessed some private income obtained from literary work it would have been impossible for him to have continued in service this long.

Had it been possible to retain Mr. Davidson by transfer to a more lucrative post the department would have done so, but the offers he has had are so far in excess of what he would receive with the consular service that the department has been forced to accept his resignation.

Mr. Davidson entered the service as consular agent at Tientsin in 1919, and he served successively as consular agent at Shanghai, Nankin and Antung.

FAVORS DOMINGO TREATY.

ANOTHER DEMOCRATIC VOTE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Speaking as to whether Senator McNary of Louisiana would be one of the four Democrats needed to ratify the Santa Domingo treaty was settled by Senator McNary himself today, when he issued a statement that he will vote to ratify the treaty without regard to any caucus rule. He said he had declared himself in favor of the treaty more than a year ago and he has not changed his mind.

Senator McNary takes the view that only by action of the United States in collecting the customs and holding the money for distribution among foreign countries can outside interference with the territory of Santo Domingo be prevented, under our obligations under the Monroe doctrine, under the United States annexes the island.

Man Who Tried to Cheat Life Insurance Company Nearly Lynched for His Crookedness.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.)

VICTOR (Calo.) Feb. 10.—J. J. McEachern, whose death was reported January 22, and life insurance policies paid, was arrested at the home of his sister here last night by City Marshal Naylor, after a fight in which McEachern was wounded by a bullet.

McEachern was reported to have been killed by the accident, but investigation by fraternal societies in which he was insured disclosed that the body of Robert Speed, who was killed two days previous in a mine, had been unearthed, taken to the tunnel in which McEachern was working, and placed in a coffin with him.

The authorities were informed that McEachern, an old line life insurance company, paid a policy on his life. A deeper investigation by fraternal societies resulted in finding McEachern alive and his arrest followed last night. Jack Crowley, who worked with McEachern, also was arrested.

The ghastly treatment of the dead body of Robert Speed greatly incensed speed's friends and lynching was threatened. In order to better protect McEachern, he has been removed to the county jail at Cripple Creek and a heavy guard placed around the prison.

PRISONER AT COLTON SETS FIRE TO CLOTHES IN CELL.

Paul Sheltz is Placed in the Jail and Endeavors to Create Panic by Which He May Effect His Release, but His Scheme Fails—Narrowly Escapes Suffocation.

COLTON, Feb. 10.—People of the city who were within hearing of the fall last evening wondered at the wild noises which came from the jail walls, and not until smoke was seen issuing from the windows of the structure was it realized that there was some excuse for the frantic cries. When the door of one of the cells was opened a man fell forward almost dead, while clouds of smoke came from the interior.

The prisoner, who gave his name as Paul Sheltz, had been behaving in a very disorderly manner all day. He was discharged from a local restaurant in the morning. In the afternoon he stopped a woman's horse when she was driving in the city and refused to let go the bridle until her calls brought assistance.

When Sheltz insulted another woman at a local stand, he was arrested by Policemen Magill and placed in jail after giving the officer a hard fight. He evidently did not relish the idea of a night in the cell, and before he had been there long, set fire to the bedding, with the intention, it is believed, of making his escape while the fire was being extinguished. The small room was soon full of smoke and Sheltz was almost suffocated before the fire was discovered and an alarm turned in.

The ringing of the fire bell soon brought a crowd, and the flames were put out with the use of an extinguisher. Sheltz was returned to the cell and this afternoon was brought into court, charged with disturbing the peace.

H. N. RICHARDSON FAILS TO RETURN TO WIFE.
Collected Sums of Money Before Departure, Which Leads to Guess of Intention to Come Back to Spouse Who is Many Years His Senior—Out for Judgement.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
RIVERSIDE, Feb. 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Possibly dead from a hunting accident, but more probably a deserter from his wife, is the story of Halsey N. Richardson, who is hunting today. Richardson was the proprietor of the Model Home Dairy. His wife, who is double his age, says that yesterday morning about 1 o'clock her husband kissed her goodbye, saying he was going on a hunting expedition in the near-by bottoms. He strapped his gun on his bicycle, and rode off. That is the last seen of him. It is believed he left the city. He drew his money from the bank and deposited none of his months' collections. Richardson has been irritable with his customers lately, and seems to have been worried, but his wife says everything was happy at home. Later he was seen to obtain all the money he had, and is known to have made large collections, but at the same time he is believed to be in the hands of the law. The husband is 30 years old, and the wife has a daughter a few years older. Mrs. Richardson is said to be good. Yesterday secured a verdict in the Superior Court confirming her title to a

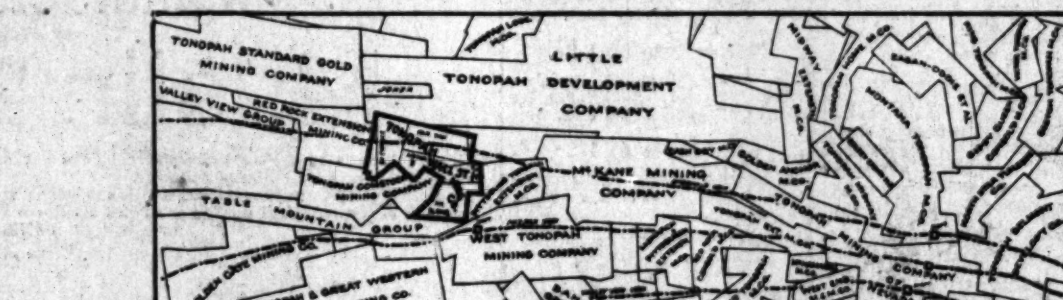

TONOPAH WALL STREET

This is the mine that has every indication of equaling some of the most remarkable producers already developed in the wonderful Tonopah district. This is the enterprise that you now have an opportunity to share in, before the stock reaches a greatly increased price, and before it is withdrawn from the open market.

Quick to appreciate an undertaking of genuine worth, the response to our advance offering of stock was so great that the entire first allotment of shares was over-subscribed Feb. 6th, four days before the closing date.

Note the location of Tonopah-Wall Street in the heart of the camp, surrounded by rich dividend payers.

On February 15, the price of stock in Tonopah-Wall Street will advance to 12½c a share.

Only a few days remain in which to obtain stock at present price of

IS OUT FOR JUDGESHIP.
While Judge Noyes and Attorney William Collier have made no formal announcement of their candidacy for the superior judgeship of Riverside, Lafayette Gill, one of the best known lawyers of the southern circuit, is not so secretive, and today announced his intentions. In an interview with The Times correspondent today, he said: "At the present time I am in no way a candidate for or seek the Democratic nomination will be determined hereafter."

"In there any truth in the report that you have been supporting William Collier for the nomination for judge?" "In this connection I will say that I have known Mr. Collier intimately for the past fifteen years, and have a very high regard for him as a man and a lawyer, and have said to him, and to the members of the bar of this country, no matter who should be the Republican nominee, I feel that my candidacy will not result in unpleasant relations or friction."

"How do you feel about the chances of your election?" "If I go into this campaign I will certainly do so for the purpose of being elected, and shall use my best efforts to bring about that result."

TWO YOUNGSTERS FOUND AT EASTLAKE Park Claim They Became Separated from Her on Friday.

Arthur and Clarence Wilson, aged 19 and 16 years respectively, were taken to the Police Station last night by Special Officer Stellmacher of Eastlake Park. The boys told a queer story of having become separated from their mother on North Spring street Friday afternoon. They started toward home, but failing to locate the house, spent the night in a barn near Eastlake Park. The lads were found emerging from this building yesterday morning, but were allowed to go, and spent the day wandering about the park grounds. A thorough search of the Eastlake neighborhood failed to reveal the home of their parents, and the boys were sent to the Detention Home last night.

According to the oldest boy, their father is employed as a blacksmith in Bakersfield, and the lads have been living in Los Angeles with their mother. At the time of their separation their parent, according to the boys, was shopping.

.....The Accomplishment of MARSHALL & STEARNS COMPANY'S PATENTED WALL BEDS AND FIXTURES

THE PATENTED FIXTURES WHICH CUT THE HOUSEWORK IN HALF. REDUCE THE COST OF CONSTRUCTION AND INCREASE THE COMFORTS, CONVENIENCES AND INCOME

The accompanying illustrations are from photographs taken of a TWO-ROOM AND BUFFET KITCHEN SUITE, in the handsome Pickwick Apartments at No. 888 South Grand Avenue, Los Angeles, Cal. Every Apartment at the Pickwick is furnished and equipped with the MARSHALL & STEARNS COMPANY'S PATENTED WALL BEDS AND FIXTURES.

In this, as in every two-room suite equipped with OUR PATENTED FIXTURES, you have the room, convenience and every advantage of five rooms, besides your buffet kitchen and bath.

PARLOR AND LIVING ROOM. TRANSFORMED INTO TWO BEDROOMS AT NIGHT BY MARSHALL & STEARNS COMPANY'S PATENTED WALL BEDS.

SAME ROOMS, AS DINING-ROOM AND LIVING ROOM WITH MARSHALL & STEARNS COMPANY'S PATENTED DINING TABLE AND BOOKCASE DOOR.

SAME ROOMS, AS PARLOR AND BEDROOM, SHOWING ONE MARSHALL & STEARNS COMPANY'S PATENTED WALL BED DOWN.

In your parlor you have a MANTEL PIECE OR CONSOLE GLASS which in reality is a BED; thus giving you a parlor during the day and a bedroom at night. In this room is also the BOOKCASE AND WRITING-DESK DOOR. In your living room you have a large CONSOLE GLASS, which in reality is ANOTHER BED; the CENTER TABLE, also in this room, is the base of your DINING TABLE, the top of which hangs upon the outer side of the door opening into the kitchen; thus in this room you have a living room and dining-room by day and a bedroom at night. In this room also, swings the GAS RANGE, which is hung on the REVOLVING DOOR adjoining the one which holds the dining table top.

The conveniences, comforts and many advantages enjoyed by the tenant in a suite of rooms equipped with the MARSHALL & STEARNS COMPANY'S PATENTED WALL BEDS AND FIXTURES, whether it be a one, two, three or four-room suite, are many; too many and too great to be adequately enumerated and described. You must live in them to understand and enjoy their true value as labor savers and furnishers of home luxuries.

THEY CUT THE HOUSEWORK IN HALF AND GIVE TO A SUITE OF ROOMS A MORE PLEASANT AND HOMELIKE APPEARANCE THAN IS POSSIBLE TO OBTAIN OTHERWISE.

This is why nine out of every ten persons today, when looking for furnished apartments, invariably ask on making their wants known, "HAVE YOU THE MARSHALL & STEARNS COMPANY'S PATENTED FIXTURES?"

The builders of, and investors in Apartment Houses, Hotels and rental properties of all kinds should thoroughly investigate our PATENTED FIXTURES before advancing too far in the formation of your ideas for your buildings. For by their use you can reduce the cost of construction and double your income. By their use, you can, on a given sized lot, construct a building with twice the number of Apartments than is possible to build under the old plan.

Our PATENTED WALL BEDS AND FIXTURES have revolutionized the construction of modern buildings of all kinds for living purposes and have solved the problem of concentration. On any sized lot of any shape, in any city and under any conditions, we can show you how to erect any kind of a building for living purposes, that will pay you double the income and double the interest on your investment, over that from any building that has ever been built for the same purpose without our PATENTED FIXTURES.

Come in or write us about it. We want to show you and tell you how it is done.

"THE HOUSE IDEAL"

Which illustrates and describes in detail our PATENTED WALL BEDS AND FIXTURES, contains many facts and much food for thought in connection with the above facts and figures. Hotel owners, managers, capitalists, architects, contractors and builders of Apartment Houses and Cottages should send for a copy and study its contents. It tells you how to best construct your building for your tenants as well as yourself. It tells you how to reduce the cost of construction and how to increase the income from 25 to 33 1/3 per cent. IT IS MAILED FREE UPON REQUEST. SEND FOR A COPY TODAY.

THE LOCAL SCHOOLS BIGGEST CLASS OF MIDWINTER.

NEARLY SIX HUNDRED PUPILS
LEAVE EIGHTH GRADE.

Girls Greatly Outnumber Boys, and Large Proportion Will Enter High Schools—Elaborate Exercises at Custer Avenue Include Presentation of Flag to Prof. Foshy.

Teachers in the eighth grade have earned several extra wrinkles in their brows during the past week. It was "report week," and every teacher knows what that means—examinations, making report cards galore and summing up the general standing of each pupil. The strenuous week reached its climax on Thursday and Friday, when the promotion exercises took place in over thirty schools scattered throughout the city. Almost 600 students were promoted from the eighth to the High School grade—the largest midwinter class in the history of the Los Angeles schools.

IONIAN AND ALUMNI

A joint meeting of the Ionian Society of Los Angeles Polytechnic High School and the alumni of the same institution will be held Friday evening, in Russia. They are suspicious to a degree, and loth to trust any one.

The United States government has offered to the local Russians an opportunity to earn homes. They will be allowed to take up forty acres of land on the fertile island for each person.
This land can be purchased outright at $15 an acre, or proved up on in twenty-one years.

The island leases held by sugar cane companies are about to expire, and the land has reverted to the United States.
Almost every acre is under cultivation, and much of the land is in full bearing, with heavy crops of cane. The sugar factories will take all the cane that can be supplied. The cane is worth $10 a ton in the fields.

The Russians will be cared for during the first year, and to each will be advanced $20 a month, which he will pay back when the returns from their crops are realized.

The government is said to be facing a serious problem in connection with oriental labor in Hawaii. The coolies have practically swarmed over the island, but are not permitted to work kinds of labor only. There is a desire for the importation of white labor, and business men there are interested in the plan to bring the Russians.

United States Land Commissioner
Pratt, under whose supervision the Russians are to be transported to Kauai, has offered the men every advantage possible. He will also endeavor to persuade white families to take up the proffered land.

The Pacific Coast offices of the Hawaiian company on West Third street, near Spring, will handle the transportation of the Russians from Los Angeles. At the offices yesterday it was stated that 100 have already signed to go, and that probably many more will do so.

Kauai, the goal of the Molokane, is the fourth in size of the Hawaiian group, and contains 147 square miles.
The soil is fertile, and pineapples, bananas and cane can be grown in abundant quantities. The land is available for pasture. The condition on which land can be taken up, in the island, is that at least 10 per cent must be placed under cultivation. The climate is said to be all that could be desired, resembling that of Southern California.

NINE TEAMS STALLED.

Rain-soaked Echo Park Road Proves Undoing of Many Drivers and Draws Forth Profanity.

A veritable slough of despond was Echo Park road, yesterday, and the conditions became worse with every passing shower. The stretch of road running along the east side of Echo Park proved the undoing of many a teamster during the day.

Within the course of two hours, it is said, there were nine teams mired in the "dobe" roadway. In some instances it was necessary to secure other teams to extricate those which had first floundered into the quagmire. It was like "the good old times" back in Illinois, where every spring they hitch a four-horse team onto a light "democrat" in order to get over the public highways. (All Illinoisans have "been there" please hold up their hands!)

The wash from the hills during the rain of the night before had coated Echo Park road with soft mud. Underneath this is a road made of adobe, thoroughly waterlogged, and with a pulling stream of mud. The teams have been stuck for hours, and the most picturesque profanity.

At various sections of this roadway,
from the Elendale and Mountman Park settlements and each passing vehicle has helped to churn up the chukholes and deepen the ruts until teamsters have been stuck for hours, and the most picturesque profanity.

At Echo Park Lake was a considerable rise because of the surface waters which have flowed in from the surrounding hills. As the section of land between the southern end of the lake and Temple street is being graded up to be used as a children's playground, the outlet drain for the lake has been stopped up, and in case the rain continues, there will be a general flooding of the tract now in process of filling.

JAIL'S EMBERS FOR FUEL.
Hobos at Las Vegas Cook Their Breakfast on Remains of County Bastille.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)
LAS VEGAS (Nev.) Feb. 9.—A drunken prisoner, cooking breakfast in the jail, has caused the building on fire early this morning. He was seeking to escape and, as a result, he was nearly burned to death. The building was destroyed.
The loss to the county will be about $200.

A number of hobos who were camped along the creek came down at dawn and cooked their breakfast on the smoldering embers of the wreck.

FRANKLIN ASSOCIATION.
A meeting of the Franklin Association, composed of the employing printers of this city, will be held on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in the Chamber of Commerce. This meeting is for the purpose of making such recommendations to the Price List Committee as will insure a larger and better schedule than the one now in vogue.
A special address on points of interest to the printing trades will be given.

MOLOKANE TO JOURNEY SOON.

SEVEN HUNDRED READY TO GO TO ISLAND HOME.

Glad Over Prospect of Owning Lands and Enjoying Pastoral Life, the Simple Russian Peasants Will Sail Within a Month for Territory of Hawaii.

Arrangements were made yesterday for the departure of most of the Russian colony from Los Angeles to Kauai, Territory of Hawaii. The Molokane will leave within thirty days on a special steamer chartered for their use.

The leaders, and 700 others, have expressed a desire to journey to the South Seas, and, with their wives and children, the strong, bewhiskered men will soon depart.

As a preparation for their leaving groups of from fifteen to twenty of the simple peasants went before the County Clerk at the Courthouse yesterday and took out their first naturalization papers. They want to become American citizens, since they will still be where the Stars and Stripes float.

Either a steamer of the Pacific Coast line or a special boat will be chartered to take the men to the islands. There is joy among the simple folk because of the opportunity offered for them to enjoy the sweets of a pastoral life.

Since coming to Los Angeles the Molokane have learned much. Several speak English after a fashion, and among the leaders are those who can converse fluently. A number have learned useful trades. Some of these have elected to remain in Los Angeles.

The backbone of the colony will go to Hawaii. All of the older members have decided to leave. The all-absorbing desire is to become possessors of land. On the steppes of their native soil many left homes which represented the result of years of labor. Several have small fortunes to come to America. Most of the colonists arrived penniless, as their scanty board, hastily gathered, was eaten up by greedy officials on the boundaries of the countries through which the emigrants passed.

They have worked faithfully since coming to Southern California, and have saved most of the money earned.
They ask odds of nobody, and have learned to be independent since leaving Russia.

HOW TO CURE RHEUMATISM
I searched the whole earth for a specific for Rheumatism—some turn bony joints into or any physician could feel safe in prescribing—something that we could count on, not only occasionally, but with responsible certainty. For the ravages of Rheumatism are everywhere and generally it is fatal.

After twenty years of search and experiment, I learned of the German chemical I now employ. And I knew then that my search and my efforts were well rewarded. For this chemical, in combination with others, gave me the basis of a remedy which in the few hours of its use is practically certain. In many many tests and difficult cases this prescription has shown its ability to justify the confidence I had in it.

Mild cases are sometimes reached by a single package—for sale by all Druggists.

Management of the Heart.

A WELL-KNOWN Los Angeles property real estate operator, who has a wide reputation as a boomer, has been selling over a hundred thousand dollars' worth of lots in which he had no title, the victims of which were women and poor men, deceived by a milliner whom he had known for years. After first placing a mortgage on his home, so that his wife was left destitute, he then sold his acquaintances, who were deceived by his disappearance, after he had referred to him as a "liberal spender" and a "poor judgment in business affairs."

The extraordinary case of the man who sold lots in which he had no title, the victims of which were women and poor men, deceived by a milliner whom he had known for years. After first placing a mortgage on his home, so that his wife was left destitute, he then sold his acquaintances, who were deceived by his disappearance, after he had referred to him as a "liberal spender" and a "poor judgment in business affairs."

a person of ordinary intelligence, the first suggestion to occur would be that if these people possess such marvelous powers it is very remarkable that they don't exercise them in their own behalf.

Cruelty to Horses.

There is, perhaps, no city in the United States where one may witness so much cruelty to horses as in Los Angeles. Nor is this entirely confined to the poor population, although they are among the chief offenders. It makes the heart of a sensitive person bleed to see two willing animals vainly struggling to haul an impossible load up a heavy grade, while blows, interspersed with curses, are showered upon them by the brutal driver, who really is not so much to blame as the owner of the team. Speed the day when the motor takes the place of the horse, for hauling heavy loads.

A Foolish Custom.

If the proposed Gothenburg system should accomplish nothing more than to abolish the treating habit, which is undoubtedly responsible for more excess in the consumption of alcoholic beverages than any other single thing, it would have done much good.

Crime and Insanity.

A few days ago a man, who is said to be the most prominent minister in the State of Illinois, outside of Chicago, and who was also president of two savings banks, committed suicide. The dispatch states that "he had for years been afflicted with a species of insanity, which ended in him a moral degenerate." Doubtless, any one who commits this—or indeed, any other kind of crime—may properly be designated as being, to some extent, insane, either temporarily or otherwise. Supposing, however, this man had been a tramp, instead of a prominent preacher, would the plea of insanity be entered for him? If we begin to widen the field of the criminally insane, we shall have to empty our jails and build great many more lunatic asylums. While it is true, as stated, that a majority of criminals are more or less insane, most of them are just sane enough to be jailed—or hung.

The Children of the Great.

Grace Potter writing in Physical Culture asks: "Why are the children of the great usually failures?" In reply, she advances this plausible theory: "Those who have achieved fame give their best to the world, and neglect to prepare themselves for the function of parenthood. Posterity is robbed of its rights by those fathers and mothers who spend their energies and vitality into art, literature, affairs of State, or what not."

There is doubtless much truth in this. There is an old saying about burning a candle at both ends. The same applies to the two ends of the human spine.

Those "beasties" of old aimed to produce a sound mind in a sound body. How very far behind them we modern Christians are!

Miss Robinson while she was living in her house.

At the Normal School practically nothing is known of Miss Robinson except that she was a student, registered from Kernville and failed to return after the Christmas vacation. Miss Robinson went to Kernville and spent her Christmas vacation, and when she left her grandmother says she started for Los Angeles to resume her studies. That was six weeks ago, and Mrs. Robinson has not heard a word from the young woman since. She wrote to friends in various parts of Southern California seeking information, but heard nothing. Letters addressed to Miss Robinson in this city have been returned. The grandmother thought the young woman had boarded with Mrs. Cartwright up to the time she went to Kernville. Some of the letters written by Mrs. Robinson to friends have been forwarded to Chief Able. The girl, it seems, had friends in several towns in this section, among others, Mrs. Gertrude Wilson of Santa Ana. Mrs. Wilson has heard nothing of Miss Robinson since she returned from her vacation, and so far as the officers can learn the young woman has not been seen by any friends of the family since she left home after the holidays. She has seemingly dropped completely out of sight, and it has been so long since she left her home at Kernville that the case is difficult.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

An ordinance providing for the ratification at a special election of $300,000 improvement bonds will be presented to the Council Monday.

Assistant City Attorney Hewitt and City Prosecutor Beebe are now staked as rival candidates for the Republican nomination for City Attorney.

Councilmen do not take kindly to the Fire Board's recommendation that $250,000 of bonds be issued for building and equipping engine houses; the legislators think that the result would mean a heavy increase in the fire force and a consequent heavy drain on the revenue fund.

The Chapman family is divided over the will of a sister, Mrs. Ida B. Laughlin, who recently died at Ocean Park. A contest has been begun, and unpleasant charges are made against the executor.

On abandoning certain premises on Washington street, J. V. and E. Culver left dynamite behind. C. A. Wagner has begun a damage suit to recover for the blowing off of the finger tips of his son.

Stella Murray, arrested with Joe Johnson and charged with snipping diamonds in the corridor of the postoffice, was discharged yesterday. Johnson jumped his bail and skipped.

The ten oil derricks which have been pending in the Police Court were continued again yesterday until tomorrow, when it is expected Justice Chambers will decide them.

AT THE CITY HALL.

COUNCIL SHIES AT FIRE BONDS.

NEW HOUSES WOULD MEAN AN INCREASE IN FORCE.

Sewer, Bridge and Storm Drain Securities Will be Included in Single Issue—Little Chance for Library and Police Substitution Bonds—Special Election for Next Month.

Councilmen do not take kindly to the recommendation of the Fire Commission that $250,000 fire bonds be included in the bond issue which the Council will ask the electors to ratify at a special election to be held about the middle of March. This special election will be for the purpose of ratifying an $800,000 issue of improvement bonds for sewers, bridges and storm drains.

It is not the first time that the legislators and the equipment that the legislators oppose, to man these houses will require at least thirty additional firemen, probably forty; their salaries would amount to a big drain on the general fund.

The Police Board's recommendation for a bond issue for police substations is opposed by Councilmen for the same reason; it looks like a heavy increase in the expense of maintenance of the police department.

Library directors are having troubles of their own. Until the present legislation is over they are not inclined to irritate Councilmen by talking to them about a bond issue for building and equipping a public library.

All the details of the proposal to issue $800,000 improvement bonds have been completed and the ordinance will be presented to the Council tomorrow. In order to reduce expenses precinct polling places have been so consolidated that in place of 108 voting booths, there will be but thirty-four.

The improvement bonds are to be voted as a single issue. It will include sewer, bridge and storm-drain bonds. Estimate of expense is as follows:

Sewers	257,500
Storm drains	215,500
Bridges	275,000
Emergencies	15,000
Total	$753,000

When the issuance of bonds was at first proposed the intent of the Council was to make three separate issues. Later this plan was abandoned. The chief objection was that the bridges are for one section of the city, the sewers for another, and the storm drains for a third section.

The chief benefit from the bridges will accrue to East Los Angeles and Boyle Heights. There are to be three bridges and a viaduct; the estimates are as follows:

Seventh-street bridge	$40,000
Main-street bridge	40,000
Macy-street bridge	20,000
Buena Vista-street viaduct	175,000
Total for bridges	$275,000

Pico Heights and University will be the chief beneficiaries from the storm drain system; but all parts of the city will join in paying the expense of construction and maintenance.

Vernon and South Los Angeles will receive the greatest good from the sewers, which are to be constructed as adjuncts to the outfall.

A two-thirds vote is necessary to ratify the issuance of the bonds. The Councilmen have figured that if the issues were divided, Boyle Heights and the West End will oppose the sewer bonds, Vernon and Pico Heights will oppose the bridge bonds and the East Side and Boyle Heights the storm drain bonds. By combining them in a single issue a section to secure one must vote for all.

Fire commissioners hint very broadly that if the property owners seek to escape increased taxes by voting bonds for engine houses, they will only succeed in raising insurance rates in unprotected localities and will in the end pay more than the cost of the bonds in premiums.

From the Municipal League yesterday came the recommendation that the Council include in its proposed bond issue $100,000 for the purchase of children's playgrounds. The League asks that this issue be so arranged that only a portion of the bonds shall be sold at a time, in order that the money may be used only as needed.

If this issue is included it will be as a separate proposal and not as a part of the general improvement bonds.

STILL UNDECIDED.
MAYOR WITHHOLDS STATEMENT.
Mayor McAlister yesterday concluded to issue no formal statement as to his position in relation to the Council suggestion of a compromise in the selection of a Board of Public Works. He said that he will go before the Council Monday and there give his answer.

R. F. Del Valle has written to the Mayor asking the Chief Executive not to send his name again to the Council. He says that his appointment has been once rejected by the legislators and that he considers this action final.

Mr. Del Valle in his communication expresses regret that the City Attorney has seen fit to advise the Council that names be accepted or rejected in groups of three. He says that this is contrary to precedent in having one-third of a board but not a whole;

this, he said, might lead to intricate legal entanglements.
Some of the names submitted by the Mayor have been acceptable to the Council. In fact it is pretty generally understood that one Democrat and one Republican were entirely satisfactory; but, unfortunately, at no time did these two names appear on the same slate.

Department heads at the City Hall are hoping that a compromise may result from the meeting of the Mayor with the Council Monday morning. They hope that the way will be made easy for an executive conference, which will be the forerunner of the appointment and confirmation of a Board of Public Works.

"It was all arranged at a conference when we selected our Board of Public Works," said President Davis of the Salt Lake City Council, yesterday, "we have a Board of Public Works provision in our charter somewhat similar to that you have adopted here."

"When the time came to select the members the Mayor called to a conference the nine councilmen who are with him politically. At that conference five commissioners were agreed upon. Those five commissioners now form our Board of Public Works."

CEMETERY NOT WANTED.
TOO NEAR WATER SUPPLY.
Superintendent Mulholland of the Water Department, and Health Officer Powers will appeal to the Council Monday to take steps to stop an abuse which seriously threatens the city water supply. Recently the attention of Dr. Powers and Superintendent Mulholland was called to the establishment of a new cemetery in the San Fernando Valley, little more than a mile from the city limits, and considerably less than a mile from the Los Angeles River.

They investigated, and discovered that waters, draining from the cemetery property and surrounding hills, constitute part of the river's subterranean flow, which is tapped later, and which constitutes part of the city's water supply. The health officer was highly indignant, and with Mr. Mulholland today laid his information before City Attorney Mathews. Mr. Mathews expressed the opinion that the location of this cemetery in its present site constitutes a violation of law, and that the city will have no difficulty in getting it removed.

The new cemetery is being laid out by J. B. Treadwell, formerly of San Francisco, who has purchased 100 acres of land and who plans to make of it the finest place of its kind in Southern California. Already extensive improvements have been made, and a few bodies have been buried within its boundaries.

LEGAL POLITICS.
HEWITT VS. BEEBE.
Assistant City Attorney Goudge yesterday formally announced his retirement from the City Attorney's office and from politics. He has accepted a place on the legal staff of a life insurance company.

His place in the City Attorney's office will be filled by Second Assistant Leslie R. Hewitt. Rumor at the City Hall has it that Mr. Hewitt has also succeeded to Mr. Goudge's candidacy for the office of City Attorney. Mr. Hewitt has been in the City Attorney's office for eight years. He is a good attorney and is well versed in the duties of the City Attorney's office. He has been posted attorneys in the city on Freeman Act proceedings.

S. B. Robinson, Mr. Goudge's law partner, will probably be asked to be City Attorney's official staff. Robinson has been doing special work for the city on briefs for several months. Whoever succeeds to the City Attorney's office will be a big factor in the nomination for City Attorney.

Mr. Beebe is named by his friends as an almost certain winner for the nomination.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.
SMALL ESTATE
TO MANY HEIRS.
MRS. I. B. LAUGHLIN'S ODD WHIM FOR MAKING WILLS.

Contestant, Who Was Cut Off With but One Dollar, Alleges That Woman Had Prepared Four Distinct Instruments—Brothers and Sisters Lining up in the Fight.

When Mrs. Ida B. Laughlin died at Ocean Park on January 11 it was with a bunch of four wills almost in her hand. James C. Chapman offered one for probate, but as he is the executor and chief beneficiary under that instrument, the numerous members of the Chapman clan are rallying to the fray that is slated to take place.

Brothers and sisters are lining up on one side or the other in a fight over the estate, which is not large. In the will offered for probate and bearing date of December 3, 1905, Anna Murdock and Emma Week, sisters, and Ward Chapman are cut off with $1 each. Brother James C. Chapman is left under this first provision one-quarter of the estate in trust for the father and mother of deceased, and as the principal has been sold out in monthly installments, anything left at the death of the old people is to go to Ruth Chapman, a niece.

Then James C. Chapman is to have one-quarter of the estate for himself, and the residue, after payment of some small legacies, also reverts to him in trust for this same niece, Ruth.

Of the personal effects, James C. Chapman is to get a gold chain containing a 21-2 carat diamond; Mary Chapman, the watch and chain worn by the deceased, her wardrobe and personal belongings; Niece Ruth, a 21-4 carat diamond ring, and a bracelet containing eleven diamonds; Inez Chapman a cluster diamond and olive ring, and the riding boots of deceased, and Anna T. Chapman also is a beneficiary.

The father and mother, and Mrs. Anna Murdock reside at Colorado Springs, Colo.; Mrs. Emma Week at Riverside; Ruth Chapman at Wichita, Kan., and Ward, Inez and James C. Chapman at Los Angeles.

Now a contest has been filed by Ward Chapman, who opposes probate. There are the usual technical objections, but the main reasons are that deceased was of unsound mind, and that James C. Chapman knew it; that she had a will made and signed on the day of her death she had four different wills which she wanted to hunch up and destroy and have a try at another one.

It is charged, too, that James C. Chapman and his wife, Anna, used undue influence over the deceased, and knew that most of the time she was under the influence of morphine, chloroform or ether; instead of meeting the wish of the dying woman to make another will. It is alleged she was given ether to keep her quiet. The contest indicates that a bitter controversy will arise for the court to settle. The estate will not total more than $3000, it is said.

FINGER TIPS GONE.
"BLACK STUFF" EXPLODED.
Some boys playing in the corals and outbuildings at No. 1350 West Washington street, recently, discovered what they thought was a great prize, but their discovery has to be exploited in court in a suit for damages brought by C. A. Wagner against John W. and Ed Culver.

The defendant brothers occupied the Washington-street premises, and utilized the corals and buildings for storage. When they removed, the place remained vacant for a while, and the sheds were an overwhelming attraction for the boys in the neighborhood. Victor Wagner had permission from the landlord to go into the place and play, and he was able to deal out precious invitations to favored friends. But this was cut short by the place being rented. The newcomers, however, had a boy, and with him Victor chummed, so his recreation ground still remained available.

In searching around, the boys discovered a sack hanging from the rafters. They took out some funny black looking powder and some short sticks of black round compound. They took some home. Victor Wagner was sitting at it when it exploded and the tips of his thumb and two first fingers were blown off.

Now the father of the lad has begun suit in the township court to recover $250 damages from the men who left the giant powder and sticks of dynamite in the forsaken premises.

HIT BACK AT WOMAN.
SPICY REPLY TO MRS. WAITE.
Mrs. Anna M. Waite of Ocean Park, California, claiming that Redondo boom property had been passed along to her on a $4000 basis, when really the defendant company had paid for it only $2500, has alleged fraud and misrepresentation and wanted her money back.

Now the McCarthy Company is getting back at Mrs. Waite. She is a widow, in which it appears that Mrs. Waite wants to get under because the Redondo boomlet broke and left her to shoulder the loss.

McCarthy sets out that he did agree to sell the property as stated by Mrs. Waite, and that she made the purchase without anything being said as to the cost price. Immediately after the transaction, Mrs. Waite sent him interest on her representation that the property was worth $5000, and obtained an agreement from the purchaser to buy and pay for a two-thirds interest at the $5000 valuation.

These latter purchasers are women and McCarthy charges that Mrs. Waite attempted to have Emma L. Traversey, Laura Lawenthal, Johanna Meyer and Caroline Sudlow join her for the purpose of defeating the contract and compelling the McCarthy Company to refund the payment made on the agreement, so as to injure and defraud the company. The four women who bought from her have refused to carry out this scheme.

McCarthy also sets out that Mrs. Waite was at the time of the purchase and for many years before a customer of real estate broker in the city, and knew exactly the value of beach property at the time the deal was made. That when she discovered the four women purchasers referred to she endeavored to get the McCarthy Company to join in that phony and heral.

Now, however, Redondo Beach lots are being, the four women have camped on the trail of Mrs. Waite, and she refuses to shoulder the burden of depreciation and shoves it back on the McCarthy Company. But the latter has the agreement contract to purchase, and now asks by way of counter-claim damages of the contract, and for $2000 damages.

WANTS PRIZE MONEY.
CHARIOT RACE IN COURT.
Ed T. Off yesterday obtained a temporary restraining order from Judge Truitt, to prevent the Pasadena Tournament of Roses Association from paying over the $1000 prize to "Lucky" Baldwin, pending a hearing in court. E. J. Baldwin and C. C. West are also made defendants to the suit.

Off alleges that in the final heat in the chariot race, January 1, Mack Wiggin was his driver, and was opposed by C. C. West, the driver for "Lucky" Baldwin. On the back stretch West crowded Wiggin against the fence for about 150 yards, and headed his team so that West's singletree was in front of the right hind leg of Wiggin's horse, so that the horse's leg struck repeatedly and was bruised.

Putting on a spurt, West is next alleged to have turned his horse sharply toward the fence, so that the left wheel of his chariot struck the front leg of Wiggin's horse, causing it to stumble and fall to its knees. Wiggin had thereupon to pull up to prevent his other horses falling in a heap, and meantime he lost twenty-five to thirty yards distance.

All of this Off contends was provided against in the governing regulations of the race, and he says that he offered to produce evidence that the foul had occurred, but that the Pasadena Tournament refused to listen to any such testimony. Now Off asks that a hearing be granted, the restraining order be dissolved, and that he be given judgment for $1000.

THE INTERIOR COURTS.
STELLA MURRAY
IS DISCHARGED.
JOE JOHNSON'S PARAMOUR LEFT TO GO HER WAY.

Woman Accused of Working With Diamond Thief Escapes on Grounds That Prosecution Failed to Prove That She Was Implicated in Crime Specified in Complaint.

"While there is little doubt but that the defendant, Stella Murray, has been implicated in other crimes with Joe Johnson, and has worked with him before, yet it has not been shown that in this particular case she was working with him. At the time of Johnson's arrest and the arrest of the defendant she evidently had not taken any part in the crime for which they were arrested. Had the arrest occurred later she might and probably would have become a partner in the crime. There can be no doubt it would appear that she was at another one."

BROADWAY—CORNER THIRD

weeks ago today in company with Joe Johnson in the corridor of the postoffice was nipping a diamond stud from the pocket bosom of a man who was waiting for the mail to be distributed, is now free to join her paramour in Mexico, or wherever he has skipped. Both were admitted to bail, and the man, realizing that his case was a hopeless one, left. The woman remained to face trial, as without the presence of Johnson her attorneys advised her that it would be impossible to convict her. She was charged with grand larceny.

MEXICO. INDUSTRIAL INDEPENDENCE.

State Toward Which Mexico is Rapidly Trending.

Protective Tariff Fosters the Infant Industries.

Results Vindicate Policy of Secretary Limantour.

BY EDWARD C. BUTLER.
OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENT OF THE TIMES.
MEXICO CITY, Feb. 10.—During the five months of the current fiscal year, the sum of $15,229,742.29 was collected by the national treasury, of which $15,444.44 was for imports, showing an increase over the same period of last year of $2,600,000.

The tariff has been a vindication of the results amendments recently applied by Secretary Limantour, and which were designed to compensate Mexican industries which, through a fall of foreign exchange, had found themselves likely to perish through competition with similar foreign products. The increase in the tariff on certain foreign articles would necessarily inhibit their further importation. Nevertheless the total of imports has really increased, proving that the general average of merchandise, in quantity, has not been affected.

The increase in imports proves up the increasing market in Mexico for foreign goods and is incidental to the general progress and prosperity of the country. The stream of importation has steadily withstood the fluctuation in exchange and the depreciation in the value of white metal. For instance, in 1902-03, despite the increase in the rate of exchange abroad, the import duties had increased $3,500,000 over the preceding year.

Men like Vicente Ferrera and Col. J. H. Robertson of Monterey, J. M. Bermello of Guadaluajara, Richard Honey of Hidalgo, the Brantiffs of Orizaba, James Remick of San Luis Potosi, and Isaac M. Hutchinson and Thomas L. Phillips of Mexico, are revolutionizing the industrial situation with broadening lines of manufacturing. When the iron beds of Durango and Guerrero, and the coal beds in Coahuila, Sonora and Oaxaca, the oil fields of Tamaulipas and Vera Cruz succeed in developing their yet unexploited possibilities, Mexico will take a giant leap forward, and this country will produce what it now has to import from abroad, including machinery and materials.

The introduction of American machinery has created an astonishing demand. Demand for machinery is increasing, and as Mexico begins to manufacture her own machinery industry will receive a strong impulse.

Significantly enough, during the portion of the current fiscal year above considered, there was a reduction in the amount of importation of manufactured articles and an increase in the imports of articles destined for industry. The men above mentioned have started industrial undertakings on a large scale in this country. Some day Mexico will manufacture cars, rails, locomotives, machinery, cotton goods, electrical supplies and articles of iron, steel and copper, thus becoming more independent of foreign markets.

The increasing trade of Mexico is emphasized by its exportation of gold. The export of gold in 1905-06 will reach $23,200,000. In 1906-07 it was only $2,275,451 and during the next three years the following were the figures: 1907-1908, $3,822,476; 1908-1909, $10,066,500; 1909-1910, $11,527,200.

It should be borne in mind that whereas, in former years, nearly all the gold produced in Mexico was exported, now under the law of monetary reform, greater quantities have to be kept at home for coinage, as Mexico is virtually on a gold basis. Yet the increase is steady.

The exportation of silver is also increasing rapidly. During the first quarter of 1906-07 the silver exported amounted to $60,885,031, while in the previous fiscal year it amounted to $54,188,664, showing an increase in that one year in silver exported $6,700,000.

The exportation of general merchandise, aside from raw materials, shows a heavy increase as well. During the first quarter of the fiscal year 1906-07 the exportation of general merchandise amounted to $20,748,677, as against $19,180,604 in the previous fiscal year, an increase of $1,568,073 in that one year.

It is confidently expected that at the close of the current fiscal year, June 30, Mexican exportations will show an increase over the former fiscal year of $30,000,000.

The Southern Pacific is making arrangements to build extensive wharves at the port of Mazatlan, for the handling of freight and construction material for the Guaymas-Guadaluajara line.

The stockholders of the Delta and Pacific Railroad Company in Boston and Washington and in California, have issued bonds to the approximate value of $1,000,000 gold for the building of the line they propose to the port of Acapulco.

PRESCOTT SHERIFF DISGUSTED
OVER MEASLY FRAUD.

Inmate on the Subject of Self-Accusation the Man Has Denounced

Himself for Various Crimes—New

Twist in the Bright Angel Trail

Controversy—Volcano Water Again.

OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENT OF THE TIMES.

PRESCOTT, Ariz., Feb. 8.—Frank

Belt, self-confessed as the murderer of Col. J. Francisco Chavez, has been thrown out of the County Jail as a measly fraud, and great is the disgust of the Sheriff. The rejected prisoner's real name is Augustus Gottschalk. He is inmate on the subject of self-accusation for possible commitment to the Territorial Insane Asylum, though this latest escapade came through the dreams of acute alcoholism. Not only was the Sheriff and county officials fooled by the man, but the Territory of New Mexico was put to large expense in sending a representative here to conduct an investigation.

ANGEL TRAIL TWIST.

For years there has been litigation between the Santa Fe Railway and Ralph Cameron over the possession of the Bright Angel trail, at the end of the Grand Canyon Railway. Cameron has managed to retain possession of the head of the trail, which he has held within the boundaries of an alleged mining claim, which includes also the sites of the old Bright Angel tavern and the terminal yards of the railroad. February 1, there occurred a sharp twist in the affair. Cameron found that under the toll road law of the Territory his franchise had expired, and that the trail should revert to the possession and control of the county of Coconino. Naturally, this would make the trail a free one.

But Cameron is chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Coconino county. He called a meeting of the board and, with the vote of Supervisor Polson, Supervisor Cornish opposing, officially leased the trail to L. L. Perrell. The lessee is obliged to maintain a trail in good condition, in consideration for this, he is authorized to collect a toll of $1 for each "animal" driven, led or ridden over the trail. For the maintaining of the trail and as reimbursement of the expense involved, Perrell "shall be entitled to receive and retain for his own use and benefit all the tolls collected by him on said road." This agreement is to continue in force for five years.

The reason given in the minutes of the board is that the character of the road is such that it should be kept in first-class repair and carefully maintained, and that the opening of a free trail would be of considerable expense to the county. It is probable that the contract will meet with close scrutiny from the attorneys of the Santa Fe Company, which has hoped for the opening of the trail as a free highway.

VOLCANO WATER AGAIN.

Flagstaff again is being supplied with water from the springs on the San Francisco peaks, which were supposed to have been drained by a volcanic crack at the time of the late earthquake. On investigation up in the snows, it was found that the stone service pipe had been broken by the plunge down the mountain side of an immense rock, probably dislodged by the earthquake.

FLAGSTAFF'S HOPE.

There is hope around Flagstaff that that city will have connection by rail with the Verde Valley, and possibly with Jerome. An engineering party has been working south from the end of the logging road of the Arizona Lumber and Timber Company, and it is remarked that the engineer in charge is a man who has done much work for Senator Clark. There seems to be little doubt that Senator Clark would like to secure a direct connection with the Santa Fe Pacific, doing away with the expense that attends the operation of and transfer of freight to and from the narrow gauge that is the present outlet for Jerome, and it is known that he has had several surveys made to the neighborhood of Flagstaff. But the natural difficulties are considered almost unmountable. Jerome is high up on the western side of the Verde Valley, and to gain the valley from the north would entail engineering to overcome at least 1500 feet of fall down the side of the Mogollon plateau, within the distance of a few miles.

ROBS ON SHORT ACQUAINTANCE.

A young San Diego man, whose name has not been made public, was arrested last week at Flagstaff and will be held for trial at the next session of the District Court on a charge of stealing a diamond ring, valued at $150. The ring is the property of a young eastern woman, bound for Phoenix, who struck up a chance acquaintance with the youth on a Santa Fe train. He borrowed the ring, and with it left the train at Williams. The young woman, finding her acquaintance gone, left the train at the next station and returned to Williams, personally assisting in the search for the man and the ring.

ISLETA INDIANS UGLY.

Through the backing up of water against a railroad grade last spring, the Indians of Isleta pueblo lost a few acres of grain. Since then the Indians have been ugly and have threatened the railroad company with measures in reprisal. The most serious offense that has been charged against the Indians in this connection was the firing of a rifle shot at Freight Conductor E. B. Patton, as he stood in the door of his caboose, as the train was pulling out of Isleta. Rocks have been thrown at passing trains, but little damage done. The railroad company willingly will reimburse the Indians if they only will show the extent of their damage.

FATHER'S HOT RETORT.

Father Queta, pastor of the Prescott Catholic Church, has been used for several weeks, fighting against joint Statehood and visiting friends. In Hartford City, Ind., he took occasion to make forcible denial of an aspersion cast upon his church by Attorney W. H. Honey, who was pleading a case in which one of the parishioners of the local church was interested. Honey stated, in his argument, that he was a deacon of the church, and that he was a member of the members of the Society of Jesus were taught that a lie uttered in the aid of the church was justifiable. Whereupon Father Queta arose in wrath and shouted at the attorney, "You lie!" Both attorney and priest were compelled to apologize to the court. Father Queta is a secular priest, in no wise affiliated with the Jesuits.

TERRITORIAL BRIEFS.

L. E. Gardner, a mail carrier employed on the route between Holbrook and Concho, has been arrested, charged with opening a mail bag entrusted to him and stealing therefrom a letter containing two checks. He was detected in an effort to cash the paper.

An Arizona company is preparing to connect Holbrook by telephone with Snowflake, St. Johns and other Little Colorado Valley towns.

For the past couple of months there has been trouble over securing enough coal from Gallup for the demands of this section, and a number of mining companies have been compelled to discontinue operations for a time for the lack of fuel.

POLO MATCH AT RIVERSIDE.

Entire Week of Sport for the Local Players.

Six Events are Carded for Pony Racing.

Golf, Baseball and Tennis on the Programme.

Local polo enthusiasts are making their preparations this week to attend the big tournament to be given at Riverside February 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, and in all probability there will be a good representation of Los Angeles men in the play. In connection with the polo there will be pony racing, tennis, golf and baseball, and altogether a lively week is assured.

The sport begins Monday, February 19, and for three days there will be the preliminary matches at polo for the Frank J. Mackey challenge cup, and the finals will be played February 22. The mixed team events will be played February 23. The conditions of the cup play are that the event is open to any team, but that it must be won three times by a team before passing to its possession. It must be contested for annually on the grounds of the Riverside Polo Club. The Rochester team holds the cup at present, those on the team being Sir George Prescott, Frank J. Mackey, F. Menzies and Capt. C. de Creigny.

The polo pony racing will take place Saturday, February 24, and will be the first annual contest for the Riverside Polo Club challenge cup, and must be won three times to become the property of the winner. The conditions are that the ponies can be 15 and under, belonging to members of any recognized polo club, or to members of the two California Polo and Pony Racing Associations. The distance is one-half mile for gentlemen riders, with a top weight of 165 pounds, weight for inches.

There will be five additional races that day for ponies and galloways, the weights and distances to be fixed during the racing week. Entries for the Polo Club cup will close February 17, and for the other races, February 22. The rules of the Southern California Polo and Pony Racing Association will govern all events.

In tennis the events will be invitation doubles for men and women, beginning Tuesday morning, February 20, and continuing until finished. Golf play will begin the same morning and will be for Southern California teams. On February 23 there will be a match game of baseball between the Pasadena Country Club and the Victoria Club.

SURRENDER IN HEALTH FIGHT.

JOHNSTONE BENNETT, VERY ILL, STARTS EAST.

Impersonator Gives up Two Years' Battle With the White Destroyer, and Will Spend the Rest of Her Days Surrounded by Friends in Her New York Home.

For two years Johnstone Bennett, one of the best known impersonators of half a dozen seasons ago, has been making an Amazonian battle for health and strength in Southern California. Yesterday in a pathetic surrender, she gave up the fight, and started East with her nurse to spend the remainder of her days in New York, surrounded by the best comforts that relatives and friends can give her.

During the past five months Miss Bennett has been an inmate of the Barlowe sanitarium, and has followed the treatments and rules of life with great rigor, in hopes that her weakened frame might be made strong again.

From time to time various encouraging reports have been disseminated by kindly disposed friends, who probably did not think of the pain they might cause the invalid when their messages got back to her bedside.

One of these reports evidently reached comedian DeWolf Hopper, for he wanted to have her rejoin his forces, if possible, and had a party ready for her. An Associated Press report had it that Miss Bennett was soon to start East for that very purpose, and an announcement made early this week, in view of her coming departure, spread the rumor further.

But Miss Bennett, who while on the stage was known as one of the jolliest of actresses, is fully informed as to her condition. She knows that climate has apparently done its best for her, and that she commenced that treatment too late for the most practiced results.

The head nurse at the sanitarium said yesterday morning: "In a general way, Miss Bennett may be said to be in better health than at the time she entered. But her tubercular trouble does not seem much improved. This has been closely watched for weeks, and climate apparently has no more effect in ameliorating the ravages of the disease. She has been told that Southern California has done all it can for her—that she came here too late—and that her condition is grave. So, she has done the best thing, and she has decided to go home, and spend her days with the members of her family."

She left at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon over the Salt Lake road, being attended by her nurse and friends. She will arrive in New York next week.

One of her last appearances in public here was at the Oberlin benefit. "Fixed up" like a demure little old lady, she sat in the rear row and applauded weakly the efforts of her brother actors for a brother player who was also sick.

She herself tested the good spirit of her profession and did not find it wanting, for the Actors' Fund has been behind her in all the months of her sickness, and has let her want for nothing.

Most of her success was made in pure impersonation, especially of male characters. In "Jane" and as "The Female Drummer" she won a renown that extended throughout theaterdom over the whole country. When stricken with the first symptoms of tuberculosis she did not believe her ailment of serious nature and continued to work for many months under conditions that were not always favorable. She came to Southern California as a last resort, with her vital powers at a low ebb.

M'GOVERN AND NELSON MEET.

Match Clinched by Posting of Big Money.

Fight Will Come Off Second Week in March.

Jim Gardner Sought After Just at Present.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Any lingering doubts there may have been regarding the meeting in the ring of Terry McGovern and Battling Nelson have been settled. The $2000 forfeit money has been received from Billy Nolan, Nelson's manager.

Joe Humphrey, acting for McGovern, posted his forfeit several weeks ago and the National Athletic Club, which secured the bout, also attended to this detail some time ago. With the arrival of the Nelson coin the match is guaranteed. Part of the money posted by each pugilist is to guarantee appearance and the remainder to guarantee that he will weigh in under 135 pounds on the day of the bout, which has been set for March 14. McGovern will start training next week, while Nelson will begin to do his hard work in this city in two weeks.

Jimmy Gardner, who so decisively defeated "Young" Ernie at the Washington Sporting Club last Monday night, is now a much-sought-after youth. One of the first men "Jimmy" will take on is Harry Lewis of this city. While Lewis is not as clever as Ernie it is expected that Harry will put up a great argument against the Lowell boxer.

Ever since he came into prominence in ring circles Lewis has been a hard worker. No boxer has yet caught him much out of condition and Gardner is not expected to have anything like the easy time against Harry that he did with Ernie. While Gardner's work against Ernie last Monday appeared to be marvelous, considering the reputation of the Quaker, who scored such a triumph over Abe Attell and chased Jimmy Britt back to the Coast, those who witnessed the downfall of Ernie want to see Gardner box again before rating him too highly. They argue that probably Gardner looked better than he really is, because Ernie was so far below his usual form. The exhibition of the Gray's Ferry lad was miserable. There was scarcely a point of the game in which he did not appear like a novice. There is no question but Ernie has been going back ever since he defeated Attell and is reported not to have taken kindly to training since that eventful occasion. If that is the case, then he can blame no one for his downfall but himself.

SYNBOY'S FORM IN FINE CONDITION.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Synboy, Keene's famous racer, had his first outing yesterday since his retirement at the beginning of the winter months. Trainer Howe had his magnificent charge under saddle on the yearling track at Sheepshead Bay and the colt kept a big exercise boy exceedingly busy holding him within bounds. Every move of the great son of Melton betokened the best of health. Though carrying considerable flesh, it should be easy to fit him for the Metropolitan if it should be decided to give him his first race there. Trainers were out in force at both Sheepshead and Gravesend, and although only very moderate galloping was asked of the horses, the spectators were not disappointed. Some moves closely approaching speed at Gravesend. It was at that track that McLaughlin sent Post along for a smart half mile in 52 seconds. Others were content to breeze their horses along at a two-minute gait and even that exercise was considered rather speedy, except where horses are commencing a preparation for campaign at the Benning meeting next month.

It is that he ran a dead heat with Synboy for the Metropolitan last year, and he was under saddle. He had, victoriously, covered from his breakdown at Benning last fall and should make a good horse this year unless signs fall. Excuse boys are being recalled from New Orleans and from this time on there should be considerable activity about the Long Island training quarters.

ANOTHER PERFECT SCORE.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Another bowler has introduced his name to the list of limit men. The new 300 man is Harry Kibba of the Fidelia team, who in the first game last night in the Metropolitan championship tournament at Amann and Triess, made twelve perfect hits. Herr Kibba was the happiest man on the alley after his performance and well he might be, as there are not many bowlers who can lay claim to a perfect score. This score, by the way, is the first ever made in either tournament or open game at the Amann and Triess alleys. With the help of this big total, Fidelia put up 117, the highest team total of the season at the Third-avenue alleys. Schultz finished with 223 and "Billy" Amann with 219.

WILL TRY AGAIN.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
LONDON, Feb. 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The decision of the United States Lawn Tennis Association to send another team to Wimbledon this summer has aroused intense satisfaction among players in this country, and the Americans' chances of winning the Davis international cup at the second attempt on British soil is regarded as excellent, especially in view of the fact that the elder Doherty's health is by no means so good as it should be. Indeed, if the Americans rely on E. C. Wright and Holcombe Ward in the singles, instead of on Ward and Larned, as they did last year, it is considered that their success is almost assured for both the first named are young players to whom another season's practice must have brought improvement. In addition to the American team, it is quite likely that we shall see representative teams over here from Australia, France and Belgium, while Sweden is also mentioned as an aspirant for championship honors.

BLOCKED! NO NEARER NELSON.

MAY SUTTON AN INVENTOR.

WOMAN TENNIS CHAMPION TURNS OUT A RACKET.

Believed by Experts to Have Many Features Not Possessed by Other Makes—Has Muscles Strong and Narrow Shoulders That are Strongly Reinforced.

As might have been expected, Miss May Sutton, the champion woman tennis player of the world, has invented a new racket for women and in all probability it will be largely used, not only on account of its name, but owing to some of the peculiar advantages it seems to possess for women players. It is put before the public this season for the first time and the only one on the Pacific Coast at this time is the one sent to Miss Sutton by the makers, Wright & Dizon, and it is on exhibition in the window of the Dyas-Cline store on West Third street near Spring street.

The tennis player, or even those who merely watch the game, notice the first thing that the Sutton racket is not as broad as the regulation racket for either men or women and a close examination of it shows that it differs in several ways. Contrary to the general supposition in regard to women's rackets, the new one is not very light in weight. Many women players are one as light as eleven ounces in the belief that a heavy one would tire them in a long game and that it would stop their speed. The Sutton racket is to be made to weigh from twelve to thirteen ounces, the inventor believing that the racket should be made to do most of the work, rather than the player's wrist and forearm.

Another feature in the new one is that the "dress" stringing or fine stringing at the top and bottom covers at least one-fifth of the strings, instead of about one-tenth, as in other rackets. This gives the racket more "spring" and makes it more desirable for women, who do not do as much volleying as men. The shoulder is tapped differently from other rackets in that it is followed higher up and the racket is more narrow than others, it is necessary stronger and less liable to break at the shoulder, where all rackets break.

A prominent eastern expert believes that the new racket will be a very popular one among both men and women players both on account of its lightness and strength. It should certainly be desirable for it was fashioned after the style of the one May used in winning the world's championship, and this should be a sufficient recommendation for it, if one was needed. It is made in two different styles and weights of handles and promises to hold its own with all the standard rackets.

Caraman Lehman an M. P.
NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—R. C. Lehman, the English journalist and correspondent, who is well-known in the United States, is a member of the new Parliament, representing the South or Market (Harborough) division of Leicester, in the Liberal interest. By a cable mistake, the Associated Press announced that he was defeated.

KIAMESHA IS A REAL FLYER.

HAS BEEN ENTERED IN MANY BIG STAKE EVENTS.

Was a Sprinter Before She Was Put in Long Distance Stakes—Has Best Record of Any Mare of Her Age—is in Very Light in the Suburban and Brighton.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Many turnouts look for so radical a nature without possessing evidence which it regards as conclusive that the mare, Lou Dillon, was tampered with.

The matter was of such importance that the action taken could not have been the result of any sudden determination, but must have been the result of long premeditated and carefully conceived and executed plans. In view of this fact, the driving association, while believing that a gross wrong had been perpetrated, had to be carefully persistent in running down all of the claims which were developed. The association met with the usual difficulties attendant upon unearthing a premeditated conspiracy and it was only after the conspiracy was developed, and attending circumstances pointing unerringly to the inspiration of the scheme had been disclosed, that all the evidence secured was laid before eminent counsel, who it appears have taken some action in the courts. The best veterinarians in this country have in turn had Lou Dillon under their care and scrutiny and to this day none of them is able to say she will ever recover her former greatness. Assuming that the legal action for the recovery of the cup is brought to a successful issue, it is manifest, of course, that there still remain the graver questions of responsibility for the damage done to the mare as well as the personal responsibility involved. If the association succeeds in the action for the recovery of the cup, the atrocious character of the work done would necessarily indicate to the public officials the next step to be taken.

BOXING TOURNEY.

AMATEURS TO COMPETE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Arrangements for the national boxing championships, which this year are to be held under the auspices of the Olympic Athletic Club, are progressing nicely and from present prospects the big event will occur in April.

Leslie Gleason and Captain Rosenfeld, the committee appointed to have charge of the annual boxing tournament of the amateur athletic union of the United States, state they expect to bring off the contest in the Mechanics' Pavilion the first week in April, entries to close along about the middle of March. The entry blanks are being prepared and these will shortly be sent to all the different athletic clubs throughout the United States, in hopes of securing the very best talent in the country. It is certain all the present holders of amateur boxing titles will appear here to defend their laurels.

SMITH AND MURDOCK.

WILL REPRESENT NORTH.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Grant Smith and Percy Murdock leave next Tuesday for Coronado to represent Northern California in the tennis tournament in San Diego February 15. Werner Stauff, ex-president of the California Lawn Tennis Club, at the request of the Tournament Committee, selected Smith and Murdock as the best two players that could be sent from this city.

Murdock and Smith, if playing in form, should render a good account of themselves at Coronado, where all the best of the Southern California tennis players will assemble.

EL PASOANS BUILD THEATER.

EL PASO, Feb. 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In half an hour last night a handful of El Pasoans subscribed more than $50,000 to build a modern theater in this city, private enterprise having shown reluctance to build. Since the burning of the old Mayor Grand Opera house, three cheap theaters have started, and citizens desired one first-class house.

Abe Attell Matched.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Kid Stein of Philadelphia and Abe Attell have been matched to meet for fifteen rounds at catch weights before the Eastern Club of Portland Me., on Monday night.

MIGHT CHANGE FOUL STRIKE.

Ball Magnates to Discuss It Next Wednesday.

National League is Strongly in Favor of It.

Americans Think It Hurts Their Batting.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] When the rules committees of the National and American baseball leagues meet in New York Wednesday there is likely to be some lively discussion, and the greater part of it will be about the much-talked-of foul strike. It hardly seems possible that the foul-strike rule will be abolished but the American League Committee will be strongly opposed to it. The National League Clubs are satisfied with the rule and will probably stand pat on it at the meeting.

There are three men from each league to talk over the rules, so it looks as though the question will be a deadlock anyway and will remain as it now is. President Murphy of Chicago, manager Ned Hanlon of Cincinnati, and President Dreyfuss of Pittsburgh will be opposed to Manager Connie Mack of Philadelphia. Manager Clark Griffith of New York and President Noyes of Washington in discussing the rule. The former three are of the National League and the latter of the American. The American League committee is going to the meeting with the instructions of President Ban Johnson to provide some change in the rules whereby batting will be increased. The National League members are going, open to conviction, but firm believers in the old saying, "Let well enough alone." In the National League last season there were about eighteen men who batted above the 20 mark, while in the newer organization there were but five. Consequently the call from the American League magnates is loud for more slugging. The National League magnates howl back for their rivals to go out and get stickers and thus increase the amount of hitting and of the game. The American League men retaliate with the statement that their pitching is from forty to fifty per cent. better than that of the old league and that is the reason of such high batting.

BIG COCK FIGHT.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY BLIND.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
GLEN COVE (L. I.) Feb. 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In a large barn that had been especially fitted up for the occasion, with electric lights all about and carpet on the floor, a cock fight was pulled off almost under the nose of the District Attorney of Nassau county who lives here. The fight took place less than a quarter of a mile from the District Attorney's home. Notwithstanding the fact that the District Attorney had wind of the battle he was unable to locate it although he had a large force of men out in the search. The fight was between ten birds from Long Island and ten from Nassau county for a purse of $100. The main was won by the Nassau Island aggregation by one bird. The main was very exciting and the air was filled with the shouts of men witnessing the fight, encouraging their favorites.

BILLINGS WANTS PEACE.

DISLIKES ANY ARGUMENT.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.)
CHICAGO, Feb. 10.—C. K. G. Billings, owner of Lou Dillon, is now on his way to New York and it is understood that he is decidedly adverse to any participation in the controversy regarding the cup. There are, however, notwithstanding the fact that the District Attorney had wind of the battle he was unable to locate it although he had a large force of men out in the search. The fight was between ten birds from Long Island and ten from Nassau county for a purse of $100. The main was won by the Nassau Island aggregation by one bird. The main was very exciting and the air was filled with the shouts of men witnessing the fight, encouraging their favorites.

"It is incredible that the Memphis Driving Association would take steps of so radical a nature without possessing evidence which it regards as conclusive that the mare, Lou Dillon, was tampered with."

The matter was of such importance that the action taken could not have been the result of any sudden determination, but must have been the result of long premeditated and carefully conceived and executed plans. SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Arrangements for the national boxing championships, which this year are to be held under the auspices of the Olympic Athletic Club, are progressing nicely and from present prospects the big event will occur in April.

Leslie Gleason and Captain Rosenfeld, the committee appointed to have charge of the annual boxing tournament of the amateur athletic union of the United States, state they expect to bring off the contest in the Mechanics' Pavilion the first week in April, entries to close along about the middle of March. The entry blanks are being prepared and these will shortly be sent to all the different athletic clubs throughout the United States, in hopes of securing the very best talent in the country. It is certain all the present holders of amateur boxing titles will appear here to defend their laurels.

BIG RACE IS CAUSING WOE.

Rules Committee Goes After Fancy Drivers.

Every Chauffeur Must Make His Own Repairs.

Influence Being Exerted to Change New Order.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

PARIS, Feb. 10.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Sports Committee of the Auto Club de France is having all sorts of trouble in arranging the details of the forthcoming race for the Grand Prix on the Sarthe circuit. The race will extend over two days and comprise a distance of 150 kilometers (93 miles) but stumbling blocks are found in the rule proposed by the committee that all the repairing during the race either of a mechanical nature or of the tires, be made by the driver himself, without any outside assistance. Hitherto, in the big races, the tire manufacturers had groups of workmen scattered along the entire course, to assist any driver using their tires, who might be in trouble. For the driver who may be termed an all-around chauffeur, the new rule has few terrors, but the position of the so-called "gentleman driver" is less happy. He and his kind, as well as the tire manufacturer, are doing their utmost to defeat the new measure, and the result is still in doubt. It has been decided to arrange a fête at the Grand Prix, on the eve of the race, to be known as the Fête de la Paix, the proceeds to be devoted to the various theatrical and automobile charities. The Opera, as also the Rue de la Paix and other adjoining thoroughfares will be illuminated and the queen of Rue de la Paix, one of the prettiest girls employed in the shops of that famous street will be driven to the Opera in triumph. It is intended to make the Fête de la Paix an annual affair.

MERCEDES RACER IN HANDS OF OWNER AT PASADENA.

It's a Ninety Horsepower Machine That Formerly Belonged to E. R. Thomas and Set World's Record at Ormond-Daytona Race a Year Ago—Price McKinney Its Possessor.

The highest powered car that has yet come to California arrived in Pasadena a few days ago and is now in Bralcy's garage there. It is the ninety-horsepower Mercedes that formerly belonged to Edward R. Thomas, who drove it at the Ormond-Daytona race meet a year ago. It is now the property of Price McKinney, a millionaire of Cleveland, who is spending the winter at the Hotel Green. Mr. McKinney uses it as a runabout when he does drive it, and has a regular 40-45 Mercedes touring car for ordinary use.

The machine is one of the greatest speed machines in existence. When driven by Thomas at Ormond last year, it set the world's record for the twenty and thirty-mile straightaway at new figures, which still remain after this year's meet. On January 31, Thomas made twenty miles in 12.34 and thirty miles in 23.37. It is said that it makes fifty miles an hour with the clutch closed, leaving the high gear. The engine is a four-cylinder vertical, with 6-inch bore and 7-stroke approximately, being built to the metric gauge. As now fitted, it has four speeds ahead and one reverse, the final drive being by chains. For the road use, the clutch is discarded, a muffler is attached, and a gas tank with lamps and a runabout seat holds.

Stanley steam racer which covered the mile in 28 1/4 seconds at the Florida carnival.

ing two are added to the body. The racing gear is also replaced by one more adapted to the speed laws. It is hoped that the Mercedes racer may compete in the races at Agricultural Park. If it does, it will have to be overhauled and racing gear fitted. So that time may prevent interest in it. It is safe to say that it would make Whistling Billy and the Garbutt-Stewart racer jump some to beat it out. Properly tuned, it should do well under the track record, as it is claimed that it has recently done a mile in forty seconds in road work.

THE AUTO TRADE AMONG THE AGENCIES.

A. Roberts, formerly a machine man of North Dakota, has come to Los Angeles to make his home and engage in the automobile business. He decided that the Wayne line about suited him, and he has taken an interest in Mr. Bennett's business, which will be known hereafter as the "E. J. Bennett Automobile Co." The A. W. Gump Automobile Company has received the 1906 Glider demonstrators, and is now prepared to make the machine better known here. The Glider is made by the Bartholomew Company of Peoria, Ill. The demonstrators are the Model "E" and "F" touring cars, of distinct types. The "E" has a vertical four-cylinder water-cooled engine, developing thirty-six-horsepower, with a twin gear transmission and a bevel gear drive. The gear gives two speeds forward and one reverse, and the makers claim great things for it. The Model "F" has a two-cylinder horizontal opposed motor of eighteen-horsepower, planetary transmission and heavy roller pattern chain drive. The A. W. Gump Company have just signed up for the agency of the Jackson car, one that is practically unknown on the Coast. The Jackson is made at Jackson, Mich., and claims the five-mile record for two-cylinder cars on the circular track—4:13 1/2.

R. C. Hamlin reports seven sales for this week of his line of Franklin. The Model "G" light touring car has been the most popular, the following being purchasers: H. G. Weyss, H. W. Keller, C. J. Kuebeck, Thomas Phillips Jr. and I. H. Preston. William A. Akers bought a runabout. The big six-cylinder car, the only one in Southern California, was hardly in the store a day when it was sold to D. C. McLean, who is riding around the city in it.

A party of people owning Model "K" Wintons are getting up a tour to Riverside, Redlands and the surrounding country. They intend to be gone for a week, and are going to arrange their return to be in Riverside on February 21 for the polo contest. Five Winton "K"s are promised already. The Wayne agency is arranging for a change to new quarters. The J. R. Bennett Automobile Company has taken a two-year lease on the premises at No. 129 South Main street, in the Capito Carriage Company's new building. They are also spreading out in the surrounding territory. Henry Davis of San Diego and Joseph Halstead of Los Angeles have taken the agency for San Diego county. A. R. Davis & Co. (The Arrowhead Garage) are going to handle the Wayne in San Bernardino county, and have ordered a runabout and a Model "K" as demonstrators. The beach towns are also getting into line. F. S. Craig of Long Beach has taken the agency there, starting out with four runabouts, and B. W. Fletcher has broken the ice in Redondo. Fletcher is not only the dealer there, but it is said that he is the first resident of the town to own a beeline buggy.

Model "K" Wintons have been delivered this week to F. L. Ryder of Pasadena, E. M. Hill of Redlands and A. L. Ryder of Pasadena. The latter named bought two cars, one in Royal Blue and the other in Brewster Green with red running gear.

MEGARGEL AND HIS MACHINE SWIM IN NEW MEXICO.

Not a Bridge in the Territory, and the Hardy Pathfinders Ford All the Streams That Appear in Their Path, the Sticky and the Slippery "Dobe" Making Outcomes a Gamble.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.) GALATIPE (N. M.), Feb. 8.—The snow has entirely disappeared in the lowlands, and the depth of the numerous streams we have to ford has diminished to a considerable extent. Yet motoring through New Mexico still presents more hardships and difficulties than it has ever been my lot to contend with. Thus far we have not encountered a single bridge in the Territory. Every stream, great or small, has to be forded, and with their treacherous bottoms concealed by from six inches to three feet of water, it is always a gamble whether we will reach the opposite bank or not. Our cable has been in constant use all the past week, and we have been using straps, cables, and under the wheels to give us traction in the mud at the bottoms of the arroyos we have been continually crossing. Friendly Indians have helped us upon numerous occasions. The ground is pretty hard at daylight and for two or three hours after sunup, but it becomes so slippery that it is almost impossible to get on. The soil through this section is of

lowed it mile after mile only to run in to a Navajo Indian village of considerable size, many miles out of our course. The Navajos crowded around our little car, asking us all kinds of questions in the Indian language, which naturally we did not understand. By mentioning the name of the town we were looking for and pointing to all four points of the compass, we managed to make them understand and they then directed us, talking in the sign language, which we could understand. The Indian village was the largest we have yet come across and was composed of probably two dozen mud houses, one of logs and several wigwags. All the Indians were loaded down with silver ornaments and several wagons and countless Indian ponies showed the village to be a prosperous one from an Indian standpoint.

Some of the ravines or arroyos that we have crossed would cause an eastern automobilist to open his eyes pretty wide. In fact we have become so accustomed to this kind of thing that after wading around in the creek bottom to make sure the quicksand is not too dangerous, we without hesitation descend with our engine running at full speed, throw in the low clutch at the bottom and go as far up the opposite bank as possible, allowing the engine to pull us up the side. We then plant a post at the top of the embankment, attach our steel cable, and with one man working windlass and the other working engine we have always managed to make the top, no matter how steep the embankment. Once or twice we pulled out the stake at the top of the arroyo, when the car has been almost at the top. The automobile would then back down to the bottom and we would have our work to do all over again.

We have to depend largely upon our own foot supply, as the majority of the section houses through New Mexico are kept by Mexican section houses and they invariably refuse to furnish lodge strangers. Of course there are exceptions to this rule, but when the house is kept by Mexicans, the car can generally be looked for. The Indians are more accommodating, but neither Passett nor myself can accept of these Indian "wags" which may or may not be composed of dog meat. The majority of both Navajos and Apaches prefer horse meat to beef, and ponies are cheaper, but I can't get accustomed to it somehow.

IN SANTA BARBARA.

MANY ENTHUSIASTS THERE. LOCAL CLUBS ARE FORMING. SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 10.—Automobile is now the main attraction among wealthy residents and visitors of Santa Barbara. The local clubs are planning for weekly runs into the country, some of which have already been tried and found enjoyable. Every day sees more arrivals of those who are touring the Coast in automobile cars. Lewis Russell, proprietor of the largest real estate office in Portland, who is an enthusiastic automobilist, is again in the city. He has made several trips from Portland south to Los Angeles and is now returning from a trip to San Diego, arriving here on Sunday. He is registered at the Potter, with Mrs. Russell, his daughter and chauffeur. Mr. Russell travels in a Franklin of this car. He also has a short trip into Old Mexico.

The worst roads in Southern California are between Santa Barbara and the Castles Pass," said Mr. Russell yesterday. "I have for a month traveled through the southern part of the State, and believe I have the road question down to a fine point. The officials of different counties in Southern California could well afford to give more attention to their roads, as they are the greatest attraction to the tourists who come here to drive in the open air. The trouble is that they are not given enough attention. The worst places are repaired and then never looked at again for long periods of time. A very little constant work would be a money saver to the taxpayers in the long run."

Mr. and Mrs. Taft, Jr., of Pasadena, Mrs. B. C. Barnes and R. C. Crawford and valet of Chicago made the trip over the mountains to Pasadena for Mr. Crawford's Pope-Toledo touring car this week. They are registered at the Potter, and will remain here a few days before returning to Los Angeles. E. P. Ripley, president of the Santa Fe Railroad, has just received a new

First Friction-driven Car Arrives.

Friction transmission system of the Lambert.

The Los Angeles Automobile Company has received the first car of the friction-driven type that has been seen in Los Angeles. It is the model 7 of the Lambert, a new car made by the Buckeye Manufacturing Company of Anderson, Ind. In addition to the transmission, the car embodies several other new features, and it will probably be discussed volubly by the experts.

The finish of the car is along regular lines, and does not differ from other medium-priced touring cars. The wheel base is 38 inches, tread 54, and clearance 14 1/2. The capacity is five passengers. The transmission is the most radical departure from accepted practice. The makers have experimented for some time with it, and they claim it has produced an easy and "foolproof" device that gives an absolutely controlled system. The fly wheel of the motor is a disc, the face of which is covered with a patent composition of metals designed to give special friction qualities. By means of a foot ratchet the friction wheel is applied directly to this face, and is moved across it by the controlling lever placed at the right of the driver. The friction wheel is fitted on a jackshaft placed across the body. Final drive is by double roller chains from the jackshaft to the wheels.

With the motor running at any given rate, the greatest speed is obtained when the friction wheel is in contact with the extreme outer circumference of the friction disk. As the friction wheel is moved toward the center of the disk, the speed is decreased constantly in proportion. Thus the car can be brought almost to a standstill with the motor running and the transmission in engagement. When the friction wheel is moved across the center of the disk to the other side, the drive is in reverse.

Besides the ease of operation, perfect control and easy start that are claimed for the system, it allows the motor to be run at the number of revolutions that will give the greatest efficiency without changing the gasoline or spark for a wide range of speed changes. The motor is a four-cylinder water-cooled engine, developing thirty-four horse power at 3000 revolutions. It also differs from common practice, being cast all in one piece. The compound four-cylinder, the Duryea three-cylinder and the Northern four-cylinder are the only other American cars that do this. The valves are mechanical and interchangeable, and are placed in the head of the cylinders, which seems to be the coming idea. The spark plugs are directly under the intake, which is said to prevent sooting. The rear axle being dead, all four wheel bearings are Timken roller bearings.

THREE DAYS' RACING FOR THE AUTOS HERE.

ENTRIES for the races at Agricultural Park are coming in slowly, but there promises to be a good line-up at the final show-down. It is probable that W. T. Temple, who is a well-known automobile judge of the East, will act as referee. He is at present at Point Loma, but he telegraphed his acceptance a day or two ago. His experience in the big eastern meets, and especially at Ormond-Daytona, should help greatly in the smooth running of the affair.

The programme of events is just out, and shows sixteen races for the three days, but there promises to be a good line-up at the final show-down. It is probable that W. T. Third—5-mile open event, for all cars no restrictions except Whistling Billy and Garbutt-Racer, or other special racers. Fourth—5-mile handicap. Chicago Has the Best

Field Day to be Held at Magdalena Bay.

THE CHICAGO BOYS' TEAM has sailed south for Magdalena Bay, the cruiser

Admiral Goodrich's destroyer

has been in port here for some time.

At this port was one round trip, but also for the men of the ship.

Admiral Goodrich of out-of-door
sports, and he gives them

they are not far ahead of the envious Boston sailors, who were victorious over every other vessel of the fleet, and even defeated the Chicago team in one of the hottest games played in this city. The Chicago team is headed by Capt. Condon, who holds the catcher's mitt and gathers in everything that comes his way.

"Dago" Wachlin is at the head of the baseball team from the cruiser Boston, and a good manager he is.
He catches and has the reputation of letting fewer balls get through his fingers than any catcher in the fleet. He is also there with the bat, but does his strongest batting on fouls. McCabe, the Boston pitcher, is one of the whirlwind type. Snyder, the Boston left fielder, can steal bases so fast it keeps the umpire guessing.

The torpedo-boat destroyer Perry also despatches a thriving baseball team, which has played some very strong games in this city, having defeated the Chicago boys in one contest with a score of 4 to 0. The team is captained by James Fish, and is managed by Second Baseman Petrucci. They are a husky lot of men, and make a striking appearance when on the field.

Among some of the good ball games played in this city by the navy boys were: Chicago, 7; Boston, 3; Chicago,
8; Boston, 3; Perry, 5; Chicago, 5;
Perry, 8; Chicago, 5; Perry, 12; Boston,
8; Boston, 7; Fruit Packers, 2; Boston,
9; Owls, 2.

OTHER SPORTS.
There are hardly any sports played

Neiner, Smith, Berry, Haddock, Carlton, Desmond, Sullivan, Deo Larey, W.
Doherty and C. Horrigan.

Each boat has its boxers, who are frequently matched for bouts aboard ship that are as important to the sports of the floating world as the big battles ashore are to the "land lubbers." There are wrestlers on each ship, and they are matched against the champions of other war vessels.
Each ship has its "dingy" crew, which consists of four strong oarsmen and a coxswain. They challenge another vessel by rowing across her prow or dropping their oars, when a signal that the challenge is accepted or refused is given them and they are invited aboard to close the deal and put up their cash forfeits, which usually average about $25 per car or $5 for the race, which money is subscribed by the crew.

Football, baseball and other sports are practiced aboard ship. The teams don their uniforms and as the mighty vessel plows through the waves, they are carrying the pigskin around the end or bucking the center, with two teams in line. Baseballs are frequently lost overboard and sometimes a football will slip and rebound into the salty waves.

A big field day is being planned among the men of the Pacific squadron to be held at Magdalena Bay where the ships of Admiral Goodrich's fleet go for target practice and naval maneuvers next month. The men will get shore leave, and will carry on a contest in which ten or a dozen ships are represented in all the sports that are commonly seen on a high school athletic field.

Courtesy May Resume.
The advocates of courting in this section of the State have not yet given up hope of getting their game started again, and are working to that end with what zeal they can command. A case is now in the courts on demurrer which they expect to have decided in their favor on legal points alone, and it is this thrown their way they will revive the game again at some point close to the city. Courting is carried on regularly every Sunday near San Francisco, and the dog men here can't see why they should be cut off.

Criger is the Boston American keenly from neuralgia some time back, his present illness. He went on a long hunting trip through the malaria characteristics came upon him again here. He has been in bed for two weeks.

In all probabilities a series of games will be decided on, one to be played on the California field, one at Stanford
and one in San Francisco.

The teams appear to be very evenly matched and will line up about as fol-

No. 2. Debs, McKenzie and Tupper.

TO PLAY RUGBY.
BIG TEAMS COMING.
(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)
STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Feb. 2.—
In furtherance of the plan for California and Stanford universities to adopt Rugby football as their interscholastic game, the managers of the two colleges are at present arranging for a Rugby game played at one of the two universities between the crack New Zealand team and that of Vancouver.

The New Zealand players are now on their return home after a season of complete victories in England, having won thirty-two out of thirty-three games. The Vancouver Rugby football team is one that has met with bright success in this country, so that a match played between the two should give the best possible idea of real Rugby to the spectator.

In all probabilities a series of games
will be decided on, one to be played on
the California field, one at Stanford
and one in San Francisco.

"Close-in" property, and for the reason that it yields most continuously at HIGHEST rates, thus creating a DEMAND for such property, and this DEMAND enhances the market value of the ground, therefore their success. This is true of close-in property, and especially so of HILL property adjacent to the city's BUSINESS CENTER.

This will apply with MORE force to Los Angeles than most any other city, and for the reason that here the DIFFERENCE in the CLIMATIC conditions between the HILLS and LOWER ALTITUDES are greater.

For these reasons we have made a SPECIALTY of HILLS here.

MOST POWERFUL WARSHIP LAUNCHED.

Monster Battleship Dreadnaught, Embodying the Lessons Learned by Britain from Her Ally in Far East, Dips to Brine at Portsmouth.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.)

PORTSMOUTH (England) Feb. 10.—The monster battleship Dreadnaught, which, when finished, will have cost $1,000,000, was launched here today by King Edward.

The ceremony was the most simple possible, the King having vetoed all decorations and pageantry on account of the death of his father-in-law, King Christian.

There was a moment of suspense, after the King touched the electric button removing the last block, as the huge ship hesitated and appeared reluctant to take the water. But ultimately she glided down the ways in safety.

Among the occupants of the royal stand were the American naval attaché, Lieutenant-Commander John H. Gibson, and the other attachés, admiralty officials and a few privileged persons.

The launch of the Dreadnaught, the largest and most powerful battleship of the world's navies, marks the first stage in what the British admiralty claims is the greatest achievement in naval construction.

October 1, 1915, only a few days over four months ago, work was commenced at Portsmouth on the vessel, the first of what is to be known as the Dreadnaught class. The promise was made then that she would be launched within six months.

There are two reasons why work is being rushed on the Dreadnaught: One is the great saving in cost, but the chief reason is that the ship is to some extent an experiment, and it is desired to give her a good trial before commencing construction on any more of her class.

Great Britain, it will be remembered, was the only power having attached observers on Japanese ships during the Russo-Japanese War; while expert British constructors were given every opportunity of learning wherein the ships of Japan proved weak or strong as the case might be.

These men were busy from start to finish of the war and immediately after the battle of the Sea of Japan came home with their data, which was submitted with suggestions, to a special committee on which sat not only the most experienced naval experts, but three-inch quick-firers for repelling at-the director of naval construction, Lord Kelvin, and a number of the leading private ship builders.

The Dreadnaught is the outcome of their deliberations, an embodiment of the lessons of the late war in the Far East, a ship apparently invincible, capable at one discharge of her guns of throwing with unparalleled force twice as much metal as any foreign man-of-war now afloat, while her armor will render her immune from attacks by any enemy's guns, and, some claim, even against torpedoes, fired at the usual battle range.

The details of the Dreadnaught's construction remain a secret, so well has the admiralty guarded the plans. Efforts of naval attaches to gather information for their governments have been fruitless. No information is forthcoming, the answer to all inquiries being the candid one that Great Britain intends to maintain secrecy as to what her experts learned as a result of Japan's experiences for one year; and, by rushing to completion the Dreadnaught, will gain a year, if not more, in naval construction over all other powers except her ally.

NO TELL-TALE STATISTICS. Usually, when ships are building a board is placed at the head of the slip giving her name, displacement, principal dimensions, horse-power and speed. In the case of the Dreadnaught, not an item in the design is revealed, the board containing the simple sentence, "His Majesty's Ship Dreadnaught, commenced October 2, 1915."

When ready for sea the ship will displace 15,000 tons, but this is the least remarkable thing about her, for, besides the ideas introduced as a result of the Russo-Japanese war, Britain is placing on her new fighting machine the heaviest armament ever carried by a ship.

In the past, British vessels have carried four 12-inch guns, throwing 850 pound shells; the Dreadnaught will have ten of these weapons of a new type, with a muzzle energy of 40,000 ft. lbs., as compared with the 35,000 ft. lbs. of the guns carried in its recent battleships.

In a great sea fight, the Dreadnaught will be able to discharge every minute ten projectiles weighing 850 pounds with sufficient velocity to send them twenty-five miles or to penetrate about sixteen inches of the hardest armor at a range of about two miles.

Unlike all British and foreign battleships built in the past thirty years, the new addition to the navy will carry no weapon smaller than the great twelve-inch piece, except eighteen inch quick-firers for repelling attacks by torpedo craft. She will mount neither 9.2-inch, 7.5-inch nor 6-inch guns. She will be the biggest warship afloat and she will have only the biggest and most powerful guns.

The Dreadnaught will cost 10 per cent. more than recent battleships British-built, although she will represent the last word in all details of her construction.

In another respect, the Dreadnaught will be unique—she will be the first battleship in the world to be driven by turbines. These engines will supply the power for four propellers, two more than any previously built British battleship, which should make her the fastest ship of her class afloat.

Another advantage of the turbines, as shown by the performance of the Carmania, is that the gunners will have a steadier deck from which to handle the guns.

The guns, armor, machinery, boilers, etc., are ready to be placed in the Dreadnaught, so there should be no difficulty in having her ready for sea in twelve months, when she will join the Atlantic fleet, based on Gibraltar, thus being placed midway between the channel and Mediterranean fleets.

As trouble threatens on the one side or the other, the ships of the Atlantic fleet are moved, making them of the greatest use in the time of war, no matter who the enemy might be.

CONCENTRATED DESTRUCTION. Writing of this fleet as it will be when the Dreadnaught joins, a naval expert said: "Nothing as devastating as this concentrated destruction has ever been conceived in the brain of man. It is impossible to picture the result of an enemy's ships and when one minute is followed by others, the effect would be too terrible for words, presuming the gunners get the range and fire as at target practice."

"To this length has the contest for sea power gone—and this is not the end, for the time is not far distant when the British ensign will fly over fleets and squadrons of Dreadnaughts—vessels costing a million and a half sterling or more, each with ten or twelve 12-inch guns, which will engage an antagonist when three or four miles distant, and will pour in a succession of shells, each weighing 850 pounds, carrying wholesale destruction in their wake."

WANT COTTON CROP REDUCED. MINEOLA (Tex.) Feb. 10.—The Executive Committee of the Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union of America, at its session yesterday, passed a resolution recommending that members take immediate steps to effect a reduction of the crop of cotton for 1918 to a point where it will not exceed that of the preceding year. A reduction of 25 per cent. was declared necessary. Attention was called to the fact that thousands of acres of new lands are being opened for cotton in twenty-five states and in Indian Territory, while last year the acreage was sufficient to have produced a 12,000,000 crop had climatic conditions been favorable.

SOLDIERS' HOME. NO PENSION—RESPONDENT. SOLDIERS' HOME, Feb. 10.—The suicide of William H. Nesson, a member of the Home, briefly referred to in the Times of this date, was no doubt due to despondency because of inability to obtain a pension. This is the belief of several of his acquaintances in the barracks, in which Nesson was located. He had been brooding for some little time because of his inability to obtain a pension. In OCEAN PARK and VENICE are more cottages for rent, furnished and unfurnished. The demand for rental property here on the sand is very great.

We know of no other greater opportunity for safe investments than the building of these cottages. If you are looking for safe investments you can surely find them in our list of choice, well located and lots. To be assured of a good income, it is necessary to buy but one or more of these lots and build a cottage on them. You do the building and we will do the renting for you. Have you ever thought of how limited the amount of cash OCEAN FRONTAGE really is? Ocean frontage in Atlantic City, with the Eastern States at her back, is $5000 per front foot. OCEAN PARK and VENICE ocean frontage, with the whole United States at their backs, will be even more valuable in time, as we have at all year season.

Have you ever thought of that? Come down to either of our offices and have a talk with us about the possible investments. Let us show you some special bargains.

REMEMBERED IN ARIZONA.

And No Eagerness There to See Barbour Again.

History of Grafting Deals Comes to Light.

Los Angeles Debts are Three Hundred Thousand.

Henry P. Barbour's debts are even larger than at first thought, and his assets are smaller. He owes $200,000, and he has left only a few thousand dollars' worth of property outside of the Long Beach home, on which there is said to be a stiff mortgage placed by the "promoter" a short time before he shipped.

Business associates of the man are of the opinion that Barbour has gone for good. They feel he will hardly dare, at least for some time, return to Los Angeles. Because he dealt principally in options it has thus far been impossible to prepare a criminal charge against him.

Mrs. Barbour spent yesterday morning in consultation with Attorney R. W. Kemp in an effort to bring order out of the tangle of affairs. The woman has borne up well under the strain attendant upon the flight of her husband.

Efforts are being made to secure for the wife the Long Beach home. In the event of its having to be sold in order to settle a mortgage Mrs. Barbour will realize a bonus of about $12,000. It is said that property of Barbour at San Pedro is worth $500,000.

BARBOUR HISTORY.
Some spicy Barbour history comes from Arizona. The Douglas Dispatch, which calls the missing man "a prince of grafters," prints the following:

"Henry P. Barbour will be well remembered in the Territory as one of the biggest fakes who ever placed foot in Arizona. Not only the people of Los Angeles who have been unfortunate enough to fall into his net for whatever he could land them but also the people of the Territory are wondering how it is that they really were so easy."

"It was some five years ago that this magnificent grafter, after cleaning 'em up in the State of Washington and later in Colorado with his many innocent townsfolk, hove into Northern Arizona and cast anchor at Williams. One bright morning a portly gentleman stepped up the street with his shoes polished so brightly that they shot out beams in every direction as the sun peeped over the San Francisco Mountains and fell upon them; his pants legs, his coat sleeves and even the ruffles on his immaculate white shirt were gleamed to such a featheredge that they even split the dewdrops. He wore a diamond earring that resembled very much the headlight of a Southwest-ern flyer, and when he arrived at some conspicuous spot like the front door of the national bank, for instance, he studiously placed his thumbs just back of his suspenders and posed there for some minutes. If there happened to be a three-story block in his way he would look right over the top of it; he was looking for skyscrapers and carried $2,000,000 in his vest pocket with which to pick up all small deals of that character."

"Every one up to the advent of this august personage who had felt his coat and considered himself some 'pumpkins' immediately got under cover, and it was not an uncommon experience for bank cashiers, managers of the Grand Cañon railroad, and men having large political aspirations to walk at least two blocks and come up a side alley just to get one good square look at Henry P. Barbour; it was worth it any day."

"But who was Henry P. Barbour? This was the name that was scrawled clear across the hotel register, but it was really all that was positively known of him; the rest they saw. But here he comes and a general flutter of excitement follows as everybody in high tension with excitement. He rounds the corner of the hotel with a dash that is truly inspiring. His head is high as he smites the noonday cone, his eyeglasses are set with an exactness that truly baffle his make-up, and he leaps through the door, hurries through the rabble that has congregated to get a hurried glance at his fleeing figure as it passes into the suite of rooms which has been arranged for the occasion. Before he hits the top of the stairs there is a terrible stampede of bell boys who have been a trifle tardy in getting to their posts of duty."

"When the mists had rolled away and the vulgar gaze of the coarse, multitude had sufficiently tired of the perpetual dangle of the real Henry P. Barbour they saw the capitalist, the mining man, the philanthropist, the promoter, the railroad magnate, the builder of cities and the builder of air castles of which they had never read much less heard of before, pulling his freight for Los Angeles, leaving his hotel bill, his cigar bill, his whisky bill; indeed, any bill which the admiring public had permitted him to run for the dear people to pay."

"The great Don Luis townsite, with its electric tramways, its flying machines, its brass bands, its twenty-story brick buildings, its elevated railways and a few other incidentals (all on paper) was the first real live introduction to Henry P. Barbour that the people of Southern Arizona got—and there are several here who feel real sure that they got it."

"But Barbour has been trimming them in Los Angeles since then and from the latest dispatches it has been the queen's taste. What new fields yet remain to be conquered by Henry P. Barbour still remain to be seen. It will hardly be found in Arizona, for the people down here really feel that they have had enough."

KENTUCKY SOCIETY.
The sons and daughters of "Old Kentucky" held a meeting yesterday at the office of J. Marion Brooks and organized a Kentucky Society. W. S. Knott was chosen temporary chairman, and J. Marion Brooks, secretary. Fifty-nine persons signed the membership roll. A committee was appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws and report on a permanent organization. It is part of the scheme for sending a big delegation to Louisville in June to attend the "Home Coming Celebration," which is backed by the State Legislature of Kentucky. All former Kentuckians now in Southern California are requested to send their names to J. Marion Brooks, No. 142 South Broadway, this city.

RELIEF OF CONSUMPTIVES.
A mass meeting in the interest of the Hebrew Consumptives' Relief Association will be held in Simpson Auditorium on Tuesday evening at 7:30. It is announced that D. H. Hamberger will preside at the meeting and that business of special importance will be transacted. The call is signed by well-known Jewish citizens and by a number of physicians.

The Ocean-side Marvel

West Naples, 40 minutes from busy Los Angeles, on the great Huntington Beach-Newport Line (Pacific Electric) is destined to become one of the most famous canal and natural waterway cities of the world.

The City of Waterways

The residents of West Naples have access to 14 miles of navigable water ways—the only natural system on the Pacific Coast. Is this not an advantage WORTH WHILE? It's worth more than "while"—it's worth MONEY.

The Natural Waterways Adjacent to West Naples Could Not Be Duplicated for Less Than $3,000,000

Make money THROUGH THE EFFORTS OF OTHERS. Vast sums are being expended in making West Naples an ideal watering place. The improvements are hourly increasing the value of every foot of land. Golden chances for you to make money through the EFFORTS OF OTHERS. Buy West Naples lots NOW, while prices are reasonable and within your reach—you'll get the benefit of "other people's money."

West Naples is better equipped for a seaside resort than Atlantic City, Newport, Bar Harbor, Old Point Comfort, Palm Beach, or any of the famous Eastern resorts. It will be the distinctive high class watering place of the Coast.

West Naples is on Alamitos Bay, the San Gabriel River and the Ocean—a rare combination of marine advantages.

The Handsomest Walnut Trees

There Are Many Handsome Tracts and Many Highly Improved,
But Beautiful Walnut Lawn Has No Peer at the Price

WALNUT LAWN

Walnut Lawn appeals to those who love ideal situation, beautiful scenery, refined surroundings, high-class improvements and modern street railway conveniences.

It is located on the Long Beach line, just south of the city limits, with an imposing frontage on Florence Avenue. It possesses the finest walnut trees in Southern California. The neighborhood surrounding is high-class, all the improvements in that vicinity being of the most costly and permanent character.

Walnut Lawn has wide streets, has an 8-foot parking between the curb and sidewalk and has artesian water piped to every lot. There is a graded school on the tract and stores, church and every other convenience in the immediate vicinity. Surrounding houses are of very character, and many fine residences are building or plans being drawn for them in Walnut Lawn, one almost completed costing upward of $3500.

Besides the beauty of the large trees, they afford a dainty delicacy for the table or be made to pay the taxes and improvements on the lots.

Formal opening of Walnut Lawn will occur February 18, after which the prices will be advanced from 10 to 20 per cent., as they are now from 25 per cent. to 33 1-3 per cent. than any other lots similarly improved in that section.

PRESENT PRICE $450 AND UP

Easy terms will be made if desired and additional concessions and assistance tendered those wishing to build at once. All titles absolute and guaranteed by the Title Insurance and Trust Company.

Five years ago we were telling you that Seventh Street is the only through cross street in the city, and advising you to purchase property east of Main Street at from $50 to $150 per front foot. Today it is selling from $350 to $1000 a front foot. Now we are going to preach to you of

The only through cross street from the business section of our city to the northwest and the Hollywood section. It will connect with Main St. at the Plaza and be 100 feet wide for a distance of nine miles. There is no other grade by which traffic may reach this section. Will you gainsay that it will not become the business thoroughfare of this portion of the city? In five years frontage will be sold at $300 per front foot. Can you not then believe that residence property on the beautiful knolls adjacent to Sunset Boulevard will sell for $100 per front foot where it commands such superb views as most of this property does; All this we predict, and more. ARTESIA

Midway Between Los Angeles and Santa Ana on the Pacific Electric

The time is ripe for making money in Artesia property. Here is a new town-site in which substantial development is already much further advanced than in many long-established centers. Good stores at Artesia, churches, schools, plenty of water, good soil—and rapid, frequent transportation either way to Los Angeles or Santa Ana. The price of property is low—a very small sum covers first payment on a lot. For the small investor, who wants to put up a little money and make a quick handsome profit—Artesia spells opportunity.

Lots $200 Up Easy Payments

Artesia is but 11 miles from Long Beach, 9 miles from Whittier and the midway point between Los Angeles and Santa Ana. It is the natural trading and shipping center for all the fertile, highly-productive surrounding country. Two fine brick blocks now building at Artesia. Tenants already secured. Four more blocks planned for immediate erection. Freight sheds and a $3000 passenger station soon to be built, the railway having already purchased the ground for this purpose. No shrewd investor or home builder can fail to see the inevitable rapid increase in value here. Yet easy terms prevail on the modest prices placed upon this property—only one-fourth cash is necessary, or 5 per cent. discount for all cash if you prefer.

A Splendid Investment

Investigate Artesia property. Lots are selling rapidly. Values are stiffening. Quick action is essential if you want to get the advantage that an early advance in original prices will soon afford. Whether you're seeking a place to locate your home, or an opportunity for profitable investment—go to Artesia, see for yourself the situation, consider the developments that are making it important commercially. The more you learn about this property the more you will see the need for immediate action. Aside from its intrinsic worth, property so situated cannot fail to increase in value rapidly.

A progressive, yet quiet, restful location with a population of a nice class of people, with churches, schools, sanatorium, modern conveniences, mountain water, and the best electric transportation system. The Huntington Electric cars make the trip from Los Angeles in 25 minutes, passing scenes of rich pastoral beauty to the very edge of the Verdugo Hills. Here on high, slightly, level land, the most beautiful foothill section in the world, lies the

GLENDALE BOULEVARD TRACT, COMPRISING 500 ACRES

The Glendale Boulevard Tract fronts a boulevard 150 feet wide that is now being graded, edged, curbed, cement sidewalks being laid, palm trees planted, as well as ornamental cobbles being erected at each crossing. This is undoubtedly a magnificent location for a home. The boulevard will extend from the foot of Verdugo's highest point to the Los Angeles River, a distance of four miles, making one of the most magnificent drives in Southern California.

Glendale conditions are perfect, the air having a delightful refreshing quality. There is no better recommendation as to the health-restoring possibilities of this favored section than to state that here in Glendale is located a branch sanatorium of the Battle Creek Sanatorium. At an elevation of 900 feet Glendale is removed from the dampness and fogs of other suburban towns of Los Angeles, and has an atmospheric condition peculiarly adapted to the healing of bronchial troubles, nervous diseases, etc.

From a profitable standpoint it may be remarked that citrus fruits, berries and all kinds of vegetables are wonderfully abundant and full-flavored.

The dry air is also a big asset for anyone going into the business of raising chickens, pigeons or turkeys. Flocks of chickens were seen in splendid condition. The stability of the town itself is unquestioned. Business and building activity was marked on all sides. Carpenters, painters, bricklayers, laborers and graders are building a new community. An elegant depot, built by the Pacific Electric and Los Angeles Interurban R. R. is almost completed and will be one of the handsomest suburban depots in California. Stores are carrying standard lines in all kinds of goods and driving a brisk trade. A newspaper is established, and there are two solid banks in existence. As an estimate or gauge of the amount of business being done, it was learned that the First National Bank of Glendale, organized and commenced business November 27 last, and now has on deposit over $100,000.00, and has issued $25,000.00 in their own currency.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY. Glendale, with better conditions and far better scenery of mountain and vale, will in the course of time outstrip Hollywood as a residence section. Lots that were purchased in Hollywood a couple of years ago for a couple of hundred dollars are now selling for thousands. This is bound to happen at Glendale. Better come out and see for yourself, and don't forget the Glendale Boulevard Tract is the cream of all residence sites. Call on the agents. No trouble to answer questions.

OVER 100 LOTS WERE SOLD DURING THE WEEK.

Be sure and go out today. See the scenery for which California is noted. Ride on out to the Casa Verdugo—only 25 minutes from Los Angeles—and you will admit all we have stated after seeing the surroundings.

ANDERSON OFF TO ENGLAND.

American Champ Goes Over With Jack White.

Few "Pros." Will Ever Visit Old Mexico Again.

Will Smith's Score Best That Was Ever Made.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) When the Teutonic sailed yesterday she carried Jack White and "Will" Anderson to England. The former is one of the leading prizefighters who visited Mexico, and the latter the open champion of the United States. They came up from the City of Mexico without a halt, leaving the touring party of British and resident professionals to visit Houston, Tex., New Orleans, Augusta and Pinehurst. This is as "Will" Anderson could remember the itinerary.

White has fully recovered from the heat prostration that caused him to withdraw from the Mexican tournament. He went at once to London and I am glad to have seen it, although the tournament was not the success anticipated. There were only twenty or thirty tourists from the United States for the affair, and as the guaranteed money had to be cut in several ways, some of the professionals say they could not be tempted to visit Mexico again. Personally, I should like to go there again some day. That was a great 250 third round fight, the open championship for Will Smith, by many strokes the lowest score ever made for seventy-two holes. The course was of mud, baked as hard as an adobe wall, and the grass wilted to brown.

A 660-yard green would be overplayed with a drive and click, so Will Smith had the advantage of us in judging distance and also in control of the ball on the sand green. Yet he played a fine game and deserved to win.

SEND ATHLETES TO GREECE. GOULD HELPS FUND ALONG.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Another large contribution was made today to the fund being raised in order that a team of American athletes may be sent to Athens to compete in the Olympic games there this spring. This contribution, amounting to $500, was made by George J. Gould to Julian W. Curran, chairman of the Finance Committee.

Gould is the first honorary vice-president of the American committee of the Olympic games.

OAKLAND RACES. PROPER WINS HANDICAP.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 10.—In his last appearance on a California track this season, Proper captured the Palace Hotel handicap in handy fashion at Oakland today. This was the feature event and $5000 went to the winner. Proper and Grastala, coupled in the betting as the Jennings entry, sailed as favorites at even money.

There was very little delay at the post and after the barrier went up, Deutschland opened up a big gap and led his field to the stretch where he grew weary. Corn Blossom then went to the front and looked the winner, but Knapp went to work on the son of Prestopans, and the horse responded gamely to stall off Bannockbelle, and won by a neck. Weather rainy; track muddy. Results:

Four furlongs: Pinkie, 108 (Clark), even; Nappa, 116 (Dugan), 13 to 10; second: Charley Payne, 108 (Fountain), 60 to 1; third: time 0:45. Doris, Sam McGibben and Lassen also ran. Seven furlongs: El Chihuahu, 109 (Clark), 13 to 5; won; Standard, 107 (Fountain), 9 to 1; second: Glenarvon, 106 (Knapp), 8 to 1; third: time 1:28. Cloche d'Or, Bountiful and Mountebank also ran.

One mile: Avonella, 107 (Knapp), 3 to 1; won; Watchful, 106 (Fountain), 14 to 5; second: Tavora, 105 (J. Kelly), 17 to 1; third: time 1:43. Gov. Davis, J. K. F. Smiler, Rumore and Ardon also ran.

One and a half miles: Palace Hotel handicap, purse $2,500; Proper, 122 (Knapp), even; Bannockbelle, 101 (J. J. Walsh), 10 to 1; second: Corn Blossom, 102 (Rice), 40 to 1; third: time 1:42. Hammerway, Grastala, Jake Sanders and Deutschland also ran.

Five furlongs: Edinborough, 110 (Dugan), 7 to 1; won; Sad Sam, 107 (Grastala), 13 to 10; second: Pickaway, 107 (Clark), 4 to 1; third: time 1:02. Duellist, Soundly, Haven Run, Classis, Zaza and Miss Hunter also ran.

One mile and twenty yards: Clyde, 107 (Knapp), 8 to 1; won; Eckersall, 102 (Fountain), 9 to 1; second: Theo Case, 97 (W. Kelly), 10 to 1; third: time 1:43. Christine A, Lady Goodrich, The Lady Roshia, and The Mighty also ran.

BASKETBALL IN RAIN.

REDLANDS HOLDS LOVING CUP.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

REDLANDS, Feb. 10.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) The Pomona and Redlands High School boys' basketball teams played on the local campus this afternoon in the rainstorm. The score is 18 to 15 in favor of Redlands. The result of this game entitles Redlands to hold the loving cup of the Interscholastic League including the high schools of Riverside, San Bernardino, Colton, Ontario, Pomona and Redlands.

Redlands held the cup last year. The best playing was done by Rickerhauser of Redlands.

A game between the girls' teams of Pomona and Redlands here resulted in the score of 13 to 2 in favor of Pomona. It rained hard during both games, but this did not dampen the enthusiasm of the big crowd.

EASTERN RACE SEASON.

BEGINS LATE IN MARCH.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—The eastern racing season of 1924 will cover a period of 225 days, beginning at the Washington track on March 24, and closing at the same place on December 1. At the meeting of the Jockey Club stewards the dates were apportioned practically the same as a year ago, so far as the tracks in the vicinity of New York are concerned, but the Buffalo track was left out of the calculations. An innovation is that there will be two spring meetings at Belmont and two at Gravesend. The Empire track was again ignored by the stewards, and it is believed that James Butler will go into court with the matter. It was ordered that all valets for jockeys wear uniforms and arm numbers, and be under the direct supervision of Robert Pinkerton.

where over $2,000,000 have already been expended in grand and substantial improvements. The beautiful Redondo Villa Tract is on the Camino Real (King's Highway) boulevard, connecting Redondo with Los Angeles. We have just bought this beautiful tract for $145,000, and believing in the principle that it pays to let our customers make a profit, hence we have decided on this grand profit-sharing plan. We will make a profit, and all our purchasers are guaranteed a profit of 25 per cent. within one year, as per our written agreement.

Mr. H. E. Huntington is Expanding Over a Million Dollars Around Redondo In Substantial Improvements.

We have down to Redondo and see for yourself. At Jefferson street and Grand avenue see the immense stacks of heavy steel rails for the double-tracking of the present two tracks of the Los Angeles and Redondo Railway Company. The rails are arriving daily. Dirt will soon fly. Better buy now. Then there's the Los Angeles-Pacific Railway Company's electric line to Redondo, the broad-gauging of which will soon be completed. And in addition to the above three electric lines now running to Redondo, is the great Santa Fe steam railroad. With four lines of transportation it would seem as if it were sufficient, but surveys are in the field laying out the shortest line of all to connect Los Angeles with its choicest seashore suburb—Redondo. Mr. Huntington has let the contract for the building at Redondo of the largest electric power house on the Pacific Coast, to cost $800,000. A suburban local electric railroad is now nearing completion at Redondo. The grand three-story business block of Mr. W. M. Garland at Redondo will be finished in about two weeks. Follow successful men like Mr. Huntington and Mr. Garland—they know that Redondo is substantial and a safe place to invest in. Buy anywhere around Redondo and you are sure to make large profits. Three commercial wharves. A safe harbor by twenty years' practical test. Redondo is permanent and has just begun to grow. Then, again, referring to successful men, we notice that the following have bought to the north of Redondo: Mr. Edwin Chambers, the far-sighted general freight agent of the Santa Fe; Mr. George H. Peck, the successful banker of San Pedro; Mr. John J. Byrne, the capable general passenger agent of the Santa Fe, and Dan Murphy, the millionaire oil operator of Los Angeles.

Acres Involved.
Sacramento Wants.

Jan. 25.—A bulletin from the geological survey of the Interior Department of the United States, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, Mr. J. H. Wood, states that the geological survey of the Sacramento Valley is being plotted, and while there has been nothing definitely promised to the Sacramento people yet, there is considerable prospect that the valley will be included in the work mapped out for the coming year.

At the recent hearing at the Interior Department Mr. Bard and Director Walcott of the geological survey were both present and the whole situation was clearly put before the Secretary. The Sacramento Valley is about fifty miles wide and 200 miles long. It contains a little over 1,800,000 acres of arable land and the surveys that have been made of it show that there is not only water enough in the Sacramento river to irrigate the whole of it, but that there are reservoir sites enough to hold the water for distribution during the long, dry summer without interfering with the navigation of the river. This is an unusually favorable showing for any irrigation project. The reservoir sites are such also that the work can be done economically and with more than usual speed.

The counties interested in the work have been cooperating with the geological survey for about six years in the surveys and preliminary investigations. The State appropriated $75,000 to aid in the original survey work. Now that the investigation is practically all done, the Sacramento Valley Association has taken up the work vigorously in hope of seeing one or another of the several projects put through. The people of the valley do not expect to see the whole of the work taken up at once, but they are in a frame of mind where they will heartily support the engineers of the reclamation service, no matter which of the several units of the work they elect to start on.

As has been said, the reclamation service has work under way in eight States that will ultimately cost over $7,000,000, and will reclaim something over 1,200,000 acres of land, but there are more than 2,000,000 acres in the Sacramento Valley alone that are easily susceptible of irrigation and have the water and reservoir sites ready for the work.

The rate at which land increases in value when once it is "under ditch" is almost inexplicable to the average Easterner. The land in the Sacramento Valley now which is irrigated by private enterprise is worth well over $75 an acre, while equally good land that is not irrigated can be had for $10. The subject of extensive irrigation work is pressing with the Sacramento Valley people. The whole of the valley has been steadily cropped in wheat for fifty years, and this sort of treatment has so nearly worn it out that wheat raising is no longer profitable. There are about 40,000 acres of land that have been irrigated by private enterprise, and this land is now selling for nearly $200 an acre. If any of the several sections of the irrigation work can be promptly taken up by the national government they will not only be assured of the hearty cooperation of all the people of the valley, but it will mean that the construction of a comparatively small section of the irrigation works will double the taxable value of the valley.

LONG-TIME SHORT LINE.

Man Who Built Six Years on Fifty-Mile Railroad in Costa Rica Here.

Gen. J. S. Casement of Palmerville, O., accompanied by his wife, arrived yesterday in Los Angeles and will remain until the late spring. Gen. Casement has but recently returned from a six-years' sojourn in Costa Rica, where he constructed a railroad for the government, which perhaps holds the record for longevity in building as it required the entire six years to construct fifty miles.

BERKELEY NOTES.

California Universities and Colleges to Have Arbitration Programmes on Washington's Birthday.

BERKELEY, Feb. 9.—At the Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration held in June last a committee was appointed to interest the various universities and colleges in the country in the international arbitration movement. President Wheeler was appointed a member of that committee and was asked to interest the western colleges in a plan to set aside Washington's Birthday, as the most appropriate day for such exercises. They have taken hold with enthusiasm, and exercises already have been arranged for by Colorado College, Colorado Springs; Occidental College, Los Angeles; University of Washington, Seattle; University of Wyoming, Laramie; University of Utah, Salt Lake; University of Colorado, Boulder; University of Southern California, Los Angeles. On Washington's Birthday, nearly every college and university west of the Rocky Mountains will join the eastern colleges and universities in recognition of this great work. The meeting at the University of California will be held in the Greek theater in the afternoon. There will be addresses by two prominent men and by representatives of the Senate and Students' Congress societies of the university, to be followed by a patriotic concert by the University of California Cadet Band.

The approaching series to be given next week by Dr. Douglas Hyde, president of the Gaelic League, at the University of California, through the generosity of Hon. James D. Phelan, promises to be as popular and well attended as those given last fall by Prof. Van Dyke. The subjects include the Gaelic Movement, the Last Three Centuries of Irish Literature, The Folk Tale in Ireland, the Poetic Literature of Ireland.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an examination on March 14 and 15 to fill two vacancies in the Coast and Geodetic Survey; also an examination on February 27 and 28 to fill vacancies as they may occur in the Patent Office.

PASADENA HEIGHTS

Lots $425 and Up Reasonable Terms....

Just a few years ago Pasadena was a barren field --TODAY it is the most aristocratic residential district of the southwest.

Fortunes have been made through real estate investments in this section, and the END IS NOT YET. At Pasadena Heights it has JUST BEGUN.

This magnificent subdivision just opened, has found instant favor with "homeseekers who know." And these are the practical reasons—the "why of it" so to speak.

Charming mountain and valley scenery—the best climate that Southern California affords—no fogs, frosts or heavy winds—unlimited supply of pure water (piped to every lot)—just a few minutes from the heart of Pasadena and less than 45 minutes from Los Angeles.

Miles of cement curbs and walks have been laid—the streets (80 foot and 120 foot boulevards) are graded, oiled and rolled. Thirty-two entrances to the subdivision. Stately pillars, crowned by ornamental lamps, guard street entrances.

Reasonable building restrictions prevail. Lots range in size from 60 to 110 feet wide and 150 to 200 feet deep to 20 foot alleys.

It doesn't require clever brains to foresee the advantage in buying in a section affected by an annual growth of many thousands.

We are producing at Pasadena Heights a suburban ideal. No development of such magnitude has ever before been projected in Southern California.

An investment at Pasadena Heights—SIMPLY CANNOT BE A MISTAKE.

THE DEMAND SHOWS NO ABATEMENT IN ANY PROPERTY.

Second and Third Class Business Lots—Bring Good Prices—Lots of Moderate Cost Taken Freely—Close in Acreage and Some Country Property Changing Hands.

The week has shown great activity in all classes of real estate, excepting central business, which takes big sums to handle now and which is not for sale excepting in rare instances. Second and third class business is in good demand. Acreage near and remote is doing something all the time.

On Rampart Heights.

The grading on Rampart Heights just north of Sixth street and west of Coronado is getting pretty well along. It is estimated that the contract will be finished by April 1. Anticipating the completion of the grading in that immediate neighborhood, a number of building sites have been already selected by prominent business men of the city. Former Judge Albert M. Stephens has bought a piece of ground fronting on Andrews boulevard, just north of Sixth street, 200 feet front, at $125 a foot. This purchaser, it is reported, will as soon as the grading is done, begin the erection of a fine home. L. W. Andrews, Frank Strong, and Charles Dickinson have each picked out a building site on the same boulevard, each 100 feet frontage, and simultaneously with the building of the Stephens residence they will construct each a residence for himself. Charles Dickinson has picked out a site 210 feet frontage adjoining the one which he intends to erect a fine home also. There is a good deal of inquiry, and the syndicate owning this property has placed Miss George N. Noh, in immediate charge of the tract. The highest priced lots are those on the crest of the hill, 125 feet front foot. The depth is much more than the grading is being graded down to about two feet above the sidewalk. The immediate corner of Sixth and Coronado streets, purchased by the syndicate, is 100 feet front, 200 feet deep, and is valued at about $10,000, having been bought not many days ago for $7500. The improvements will cost a considerable sum of money.

GEM OF FOOTHILLS.

Scenes Around Monrovia in Eastern End of the Beautiful San Gabriel Valley.

These Sunday, real estate sections have been illuminated for two or three weeks by pictures from Sierra Madre, village nestling under the very brow of the beautiful Sierra Madre Mountains. This week the pictures come from Monrovia, known for twenty years since it was first founded as "The Gem of the Valley." To be sure, this title is applied to the town by its own inhabitants, and those living in other portions of the valley are sometimes more or less disposed to dispute the claim. Still, San Gabriel Valley people need not be niggardly in this matter of allowing any town to appropriate to itself any epithet, however.

Roops Big Profit.

I. H. Lowman and George W. Walker have sold to John Spies 132x150 feet on the southwest corner of Sixth and Olive streets, for $20,000. The property is practically unimproved. The deal was made by Robert Marsh & Co. and W. L. Hollingsworth. This property was once in the hands of Vail & Gates, but they sold it less than a year ago for $150,000. An evening paper had a wild story touching this deal. The above are the facts.

The Drama—Music and Musicians—Brush and Pencil have to keep your wits strained with the effort to make believe."

When to open your eyes or to close them reaches the point where illusion is a thing of the past, where stage pictures, themes and plot are to be torn apart and dissected and to rob them of the flesh and leave only the skeleton, the open-gazer or critic is in a bad way.

One of the beautiful things of life is self-illusion—the happy faculty of believing in something other than the very material, matter-of-fact, everyday things we meet in our lives. When that power has left us, because of cynicism or because we are satisfied, with over-much literature, drama, or music, we become, like the athlete, over-trained, and only a complete rest can restore us to our proper psychological equilibrium.

Who has not been thrilled by the wonderful stories, told with such tremendous power by Wagner in his Ring series—Brimstone, Siegfried, Parsifal, and all the other heroes and heroines he has depicted? Who has not been interested and delighted by the adventures of Hansel and Gretel? And to digress a moment from the opera to the drama—why is Barrie's "Peter Pan" a fantastic fairy tale, each a tremendous success, even among the grown-up? Viewed purely from a critical viewpoint—from the stand of one who goes to the opera with a deliberate purpose to dissect, Mr. Staud may be right. Seen through the eyes of one who goes to enjoy, to admire, to be interested, Mr. Staud is utterly wrong. And to the credit of the great mass of music lovers be it said that only a small minority think as he does. Even in modern America, love of the picturesque, the romantic, and the illusionary is still prevalent—to leave our daily lives, to beautify and to soften them.—[Musical America.]

Berlin's Instrumentation.

A new edition of Berlin's book on instrumentation, edited by Richard Strauss, is soon to appear, and this promptly Fernande Bessie, of American acquaintance, to expose his ideas on instrumentation in the music. According to his ideas, Mozart, Weber, Wagner, and especially Berlioz, were true instrumentalists—that is to say, their thoughts are in real orchestral form. Others, he believes, wrote music that was not essentially orchestral, but which gives the effect of being taken from some instrument and arranged for orchestra.

It is true that with certain composers the orchestra is to some extent a foreign language. Thus Schumann never really at home in his scoring. His ideas are deep, earnest, full of meaning; but their expression is somewhat muddy. Schumann wrote best and thought most naturally for piano. Schubert, too, is an example of the same point. He wrote melodies because they came to him naturally, and even his symphonies are typical in effect, though his orchestration is not to be despised.

But Beethoven should certainly have been classed among those who could think in orchestral numbers. In fact, his last five piano sonatas are examples of effects too broad for the single instrument. He has been well called "the liberator of the orchestra," and he brought out the capabilities of each instrument as no one before him had ever dreamed of doing.

Books on orchestration have seldom been put in popular form, and if Strauss has fashioned Berlioz into this shape, he has performed a worthy task. Here are some of the points that Busoni hopes will be treated in the new work:

The orchestra itself is one great instrument, and the composer who writes long episodes for one particular group of instruments is neglecting his opportunities.

Each phrase for an instrument should begin and end clearly and neatly, and not be left hanging in the air. Wagner and Mozart are quoted as good examples to follow in this.

The effect of holding notes, corresponding with the pedal in piano music, should not be abused. Pianissimo and fortissimo are not necessarily obtained by employing the least or the greatest number of instruments. Due regard must be had to the tone-color desired.

These points are mostly for advanced students. To the beginner, the ordinary details of scoring are something of a mystery, needlessly complicated by many customs that are not all necessary at present.—[The Etude.]

Mozart Anniversary.

Says the Berlin correspondent of the Music Leader: The approaching 175th anniversary of Mozart's birth is the occasion of a perfect outpouring of Mozart literature. The three most potent factors, which in the last half of the nineteenth century have furnished impetus to Mozart study and have aided in the dissemination of Mozart data, are the well-known Mozart biography by Otto Jahn; the Chronological Thematic List of Mozart's complete works by Von Köchel; and last, but of greater practical importance than the two already mentioned, the complete edition of the master's work, gotten out by Breitkopf and Härtel in eighty folio volumes. The first appeared in 1795, and which Jahn acknowledged to be "honest and reliable." "The Women Who Have Influenced Mozart," is the title of a book by Carol Schumann.

Every Mozart investigator has ransacked the pigeon-holes of his desk in search of new Mozart material and the result has been and will continue to be a wealth of information, throwing light upon every phase and feature of Mozart's life, work and art importance; indeed, there seems to be no moment in Mozart's brief career, from the cradle to the grave, upon which these writers have not turned the search-light of their investigations. As is usual in such cases, much chaff is to be found among the wheat. The motto for "occasion articles" seems to be—"The main issue is to write something, be it fact or fiction, pithy or pointless."

Folk Welschgartner has been moved to burst forth into a wild dithyrambic, which he calls the "Birth of Mozart." The subject is treated in the direct, globose manner, characteristic of the new literary trend, and this really poetic idea is destroyed by the offense done to one's good taste in the form of expression.

There is in existence in Berlin a most flourishing Mozart Society, which counts among its 100 members some of the best-known names in the musical world. Heading the list is the name of the German Crown Prince, who is a devoted patron and lover of music, and by no means an unskilled violinist. On the Executive Committee are such men as Dr. Joachim, Prof. Heinrich Barth, Prof. George Schumann, Franz Ries and Robert V. Mendelssohn. The object of the society, as laid down in the preamble to its constitution and bylaws, is: "The Mozart Society in Berlin has for its object the cultivation of the musical creations of Mozart by their performance in public concerts, as well as in the most intimate circles, and the advancement of an understanding of these compositions by discussions of a literary and aesthetic nature and by historical research."

ANOTHER PEERESS FROM AMERICA.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—By conferring a barony on Alexander John Forbes-Leith, King Edward has made another American woman a peeress. Before her marriage early in the twenties Mrs. Forbes-Leith—as she will continue to be known until her husband decides to what he will affix his title of lord—she was Miss Marie Louise Janney of St. Louis and her father was the proprietor of the Joliet Steel Works. She has never been identified with the Anglo-American colony in London until the King's birthday honors was published it was not generally known that she was a daughter of Columbia. In fact, neither she nor her husband, although they have a magnificent town residence in Grosvenor Crescent, have been conspicuous in the social life of the metropolis. It is a somewhat striking commentary on the species of distinction that leads to a seat in the House of Lords that the recipient of the only peerage created in commemoration of his Majesty's birthday is not even mentioned in "Who's Who" where the name of every Britisher who amounts to anything is supposed to find a place. But now that Mr. Forbes-Leith has become a peer he is sure not to be overlooked in future editions. He is really well deserving of such notice than many folk whose claims to contemporary fame are less recorded. He contributed generously to the raising of volunteers for the South African war in which his only son, an officer in the Royal Dragoon, took part and died of enteric. He is the son of a rear-admiral and was himself in the navy, but retired from the service while still a lieutenant to take life easy. He is a wealthy man, but how much of his money he owes to his wife is not known. Anyhow he found himself with enough of it after his marriage to purchase Eryie Castle in Aberdeen from Sir Maurice Duff-Gordon. It is a fine specimen of Scotch baronial architecture and boasts both a curse and a ghost which are supposed to considerably enhance its value.

Eryie Castle Mrs. Forbes-Leith passes most of her time, finding the tranquil pleasures of country life much more to her liking than the giddy whirl of social distractions that are crowded into the London season. A grandmother herself with a grandson thirteen years old, she is still devoted to children, and at Eryie Castle she gives many parties to boys and girls from the neighboring villages and delights them with her fairy tales, of which she possesses a most inexhaustible store. Her husband's fondness for all forms of outdoor life and whether mounted by his side or in a motor car, is equally at home. He is a notable yachtsman and is a member of that most exclusive club, the Royal Yacht Squadron, which rejected Sir Thomas Lipton because he is a tradesman and made his own pile. Their only daughter is married to Col. Charles Burn.

Comp to the Duke of Connaught, the King's brother, The Duke is the godfather of the little son who was born of this marriage. Mrs. Forbes-Leith any ambition to shine in society could have done so long ago, for her husband has "much influence" in court. One of his near relatives, the daughter of Sir Charles Forbes, is the wife of "Willie" James of West Dean Park and one of the King's most devoted friends. It is probable that as "My Lady" Mrs. Forbes-Leith will continue to set an example of generous hospitality. It is probable that he will himself be a guest at Eryie Castle before long.

ENOBRY IN ECONOMIC FORCE.

Each Layer in Society Deems Itself Better Than That Below.

(Chicago News.) Accepting for the convenience of the masses for riches, Prof. F. W. Thorstein of Harvard University, in a speech at Baltimore, Wednesday, named four chief causes contributing to it: Love of comfort, desire for distinction, the impulse to continue in active life and the passion for power. The desire for distinction, the speaker pointed out, frequently takes the form of enobry, which is now "a factor of the first importance in the economic world." "Each layer in society deems itself better than that below and wishes to be as well thought of as that above. Each set deems itself superior to the other, and each stage of worldly advancement has been reached."

A similar case, it is interesting to note, is reflected in Prof. Thorstein Veblen's "Theory of the Leisure Class," which some Boston club women have just adopted as a guide to social reforms. According to Prof. Veblen, the chief victims of the "desire for distinction" are the people who have cultivation but who lack money. "There is no class," he says, "which spends so large a per cent. of income on conspicuous waste as the scholarly class, because it usually is rated under a higher social grade than its pecuniary means will warrant."

The distinction between the higher and the lower social grade, it appears, is based primarily on wealth and the ability to parade it. Owing to the distortion of ideals, the American citizen, starting originally with the democratic proposition that one man is as good as any other, has come to equal the notion that he can show his equality by the best things of life counts for little as against the fact that they have money and can show it. There are men who would rather be convicted of illiteracy than of poverty. Considering the steady growth of these social distinctions, it is not surprising that wealth worship, the American citizen may well soon ask himself if after all, money is any real test of worth. A system which compels the "scholarly class" of a country to live basely, presumably on intellectual or extrinsically test it loses its social rating is paradoxical in a civilization of art and achievement.

With towers and domes and palaces,

In pride

And state she sits the circling hills

Into her lap the centuries have flung

Their splendid spoils, and art with art

To weave her charm'd raiment to abide

And keep her ever beautiful and young.

And those who pass beneath her potent

She welcomes nobly, and with royal

Mr. Sauerwen's Water Colors.

On Thursday there opened in the Steibel Gallery, on Broadway, an interesting exhibition of Frank P. Sauerwen's recent European water colors. The show, which comprises some thirty of its foreign flavor and its vivacity of color appealed to him strongly. He made many pictures here which found a ready sale both in Europe and America.

Then Mr. Wores called for Japan, where he both painted and wrote. He illustrated his own articles, which were subsequently published in the magazine, "Art of Flower Arrangement in Japan" appeared in Scribner's; "An American Artist in Japan" in the Century; and "Wistaria Shrine of Kamido" in the Cosmopolitan. He also had articles on Japan in Harper's Weekly, one of which was enriched by a portrait of Count Ito, painted by Mr. Wores.

Mr. Wores has, apparently, been everywhere, for his present exhibit gives us work from London, Grenada, Hawaii, Tokyo, San Francisco, etc., etc. Our artist's last trip was to Spain, and he confesses that he spent a good deal of time in Madrid, studying the wonderful masterpieces of Velasquez. He admits, too, that he learned more from these than from the canvases of any other painter.

After the exquisite directness and simplicity of Velasquez, all other painting is apt to pictures, will continue for ten days. It is free to the general public.

These colorful bits from Mr. Sauerwen's brush have already been reviewed in this column, but I cannot refrain from pointing out again a part of the pleasure in store for those who have not yet seen them. Mr. Sauerwen spent a year in Italy and Northern Spain, and has just returned with the rich results of his enthusiastic study.

His scrip contains scenes from Florence, from Venice, from Sicily, from Syracuse, and from many places in Northern Spain, among them a beautifully toned and restful view of a court in the Alhambra. The Venetian and Florentine pictures are especially rich and glowing in color.

Mr. Sauerwen has evidently enjoyed his year to the full, and much of his appear labored and intricate. Mr. Wores applied what he had learned, without loss of time, for the pictures he painted in Spain are certainly the best he ever did. His "Morning on Guadalupe, Spain," is perhaps the best canvas in the exhibition, full of harmony and delightful in feeling. Among the other charming Spanish subjects are "Molino San Juan," which has been sold to Joe E. Cook; "Under the Vine, Grenada," bought by Mrs. Soiano; "Hollyhocks in the Garden of the Generalita, Grenada," and "Moonlight in the Alhambra," which is painted with great feeling.

Mr. Wores, who lived for some time in Vallina, Robert Louis Stevenson's old home, made some interesting studies there also, as well as in Honolulu. "The Lull Maker," is a study of a girl in red, brilliant and compelling. "In Samos" shows a native paddling down the stream near Vallina. The foliage is richly and crudely tropical.

Among the subjects from Nippon mention must be made of "The Iris Garden of Hort Kiri," painted in cool greens and grays; "A Chrysanthemum Show, Yokohama," showing a tender luminous sky; "The Cherry Blossoms of Nogiama," which is as simple and decorative as some exquisite old Japanese print; and "Viewing the Cherry Blossoms," showing a tender pink tones. Nor must "Lilies for the New Year, Chinatown, San Francisco," be forgotten; for this also has the tone, rich yet gray, of an unobtrusive and useful decoration.

The portraits in the exhibition are not many: One of "Mrs. Reginald Brook," a strongly individualized portrait; "Warren Olney, Esq.," and a very charming one, "Mrs. Alfred Cook and Son," in which there are harmony, strength and character. The son, a small child, is painted with much sympathy.

A similar case, it is interesting to note, is reflected in Prof. Thorstein Veblen's "Theory of the Leisure Class," which some Boston club women have just adopted as a guide to social reforms. According to Prof. Veblen, the chief victims of the "desire for distinction" are the people who have cultivation but who lack money.

Removal of Duty. Strong expressions of opinion in favor of the removal of the duty on works of art have appeared simultaneously in many parts of the country. This fact is only one of the many evidences that we are entering upon a new phase in our national existence. Our success in business is unprecedented, our material progress among the nations of the world is unrivaled, but in one of the most important attainments, the development of the fine arts, we are still very far behind. This deficiency in our national achievements is due largely to the natural difficulties under which we have labored. The youngest of the great nations, we have been forced to devote our energies to developing the resources of the country. The result has been the accumulation of vast wealth, and this having been accomplished, we are now beginning to realize our responsibility on what might be called the finer side of life, the duty to increase the facilities for education and for the cultivation of a finer public taste and a keener appreciation of objects of beauty.

But as we turn to our new task, we are confronted with two obstacles. First, the fact that unlike the nations of the Old World, we have inherited no art treasures from the great epochs of the past; and second, that the law has penalized and discouraged the transfer of these art treasures to this country by imposing a duty upon them.

The first obstacle is a natural one, which was absolutely unavoidable, but the second is an artificial barrier, which can be swept away by the stroke of a pen.

Is it not the paramount duty, then, of every Senator, Congressman and citizen of the country to do everything in his power to remove this barrier from the path of progress, and have we not a right to expect that works of art will be placed upon the free list during the next session of Congress?

The half-way measures which have been passed, recognize and accept the principle, for the complete and logical application of which the American Free Art League is contending; that is, that works of art have an educational value.

If this is true, as admitted, then the more we have of them in the country the better off we are. The introduction should be encouraged in every possible way. It is not enough to remove the duty only from those which are to be permanently in public galleries, for as the late Senator Hoar well said, "Private ownership is always very brief, and sooner or later the paintings get into public galleries."

At the present time more than a third of the paintings in public exhibition in the Corcoran Gallery, Washington, D. C., with a valuation of more than one-half are owned by private individuals. These paintings have paid the penalty.

American artists are unanimous in their demand for the removal of the duty. The only protection they wish is that which would come from the abolition of the present artist's tax on the sale of their work. "Our livelihood depends upon the education of the public taste," said a source of revenue, the returns are insignificant as compared with the educational benefit which would be derived from the removal of the duty.

ART NOTES. The eighty-first annual exhibition of the Academy of Design, which just closed in New York, had a group of sculpture, which were by Oulton Borglum, created such an attention as to be shown at the Academy of Design, which was by Borglum as "forms of the 'Sketch' (model) of James H. Rusk."

Two of Hernandez Villa's coal drawings, the study of a woman which was exhibited at the Rusk show last year, and of an Indian boy which was in Art and Artists some time ago, have been reproduced in the Pencil (Chicago) for January.

Fannie E. Duval will start her work on her future home in the near future. She is a very personal attention to her work and the residence-studio will be a charming one. It is a matter of regret.

W. W. Story, the sculptor, visited the Crocker Gallery recently, and looking over some of its masterpieces, he said that he had never seen so many of the masterpieces of the past.

Edwards Fendler, who has been named for his country in the journey and painted about thirty works on the picture and the series of articles for the series, telling of a three-month ride through Spain in a horse-drawn carriage.

Frank Fowler is painting a portrait of the Hon. John H. Brown, United States Minister in Spain, at the New York Club. Daniel C. French is painting a statue of Gen. Wolcott which is set in bronze soon for the State House.

Sample Table Linens

a full third under regular
To people who know how closely reliable linens are always held to established values that statement may at first seem ridiculous.

Importer's samples—that explains it.
An importer thinks nothing of forfeiting profits and a generous slice of the cost when one season's sample lines are to be displaced by another.

This collection includes dozens and dozens of different designs in tablecloths, at $3 to $10.50, that would be $4.50 to $15 if we had paid regular rates; sizes 2 yards wide by 2½, 3, 3½ and 4 yards long.

Large cloths, 2½x3½, 2½x3¾, 2½x4 and 2½x5 yards, at $5.50 to $17.50—a full third under actual value.

Full-size dinner napkins to match above cloths, at the same rate of reduction.

Splendid showing of fine Irish linen double damask napkins, full dinner size, at $4.00 a dozen; good big $6 values.

Prices Everlastingly the Lowest

In the long list of successful sales credited to The Broadway Department Store no single event has won more friends for this busy mart than our school book sales which are held semi-annually. Before The Broadway entered the field with school books, Los Angeles parents had to pay book store profits (which, by the way, are rather long profits) for these necessary commodities. We commenced about eight years ago supplying school books at manufacturer's cost, and the public appreciated the concession. They showed their appreciation by crowding our aisles to overflowing. Each year the sales have been greater and greater until now it takes a small army of salespeople, cashiers and bundle wrappers to handle the throngs which patronize our school book sale. You'll find every text-book which is in demand here, as well as all the little extras that go to make up the school outfit, and everybody knows that Broadway prices are always the lowest.

Awake To This Fact

Brent's the giant store, cuts prices 25 per cent. to 40 per cent. below the Trust.

Perhaps you have no faith in advertising. Perhaps you have never stopped to realize that a remarkable condition exists in the furniture market of Los Angeles.

Perhaps you don't appreciate the extraordinary fact that Brent's—the big independent store—is actually selling all classes of furniture day after day, week after week, at 25 per cent. to 40 per cent. below the Trust.

Behold the results!

The Trust stores have become deadly quiet. You seldom see a Trust delivery wagon on the streets. You seldom hear your friends say that they bought furniture at a Trust store. Our own business has grown enormously.

Our monster new store is located out of the district of high rents. It is the largest establishment utilized by any retail firm. Already our business has grown almost to the limits of this new big store. With our vast floor space and low rent we are able to cut prices deeper and with still more ease we can dominate the Trust.

Business here is alert and active from the opening hour to the last closing moment. Carloads of goods arrive weekly—carloads are sold weekly. Manufacturers are eager to make all possible concessions in order to capture Brent's patronage.

At Brent's there is a never-ending change of goods. The very newest ideas in all classes of furniture are on exhibit. Better goods, big variety and prices from 25 per cent. to 40 per cent. below the Trust. We are the only store that dares to publish hundreds of prices. Come to Brent's and see the truth of these statements.

Carload of Damaged Pianos, Sacrifice

We have just received a carload of pianos, the cases of which have become damaged in transit. Some of them have been severely scratched across the front, others have had the corners bruised and rubbed. The company responsible for this damage will be compelled to make good the loss, and instead of going to the great expense of refashioning the pianos we shall offer them at sacrifice prices.

The President, is He a Czar?

USES POLITICAL METHODS TO ACCOMPLISH THINGS IN WASHINGTON—BUT THIS IS NOT THE CAUSE OF TROUBLE.

By Lincoln Steffens.

(SPECIALLY CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Something serious is the matter here. The lobbies are active and anxious. There was talk for one brief moment of bribery; cash bribes; with money in Washington! But that faded into a mere report (traced to two pretty good authorities) of mere corruption with mere mining stock, and the interest ceased. A rebellion in the House against the Speaker-boss persists, however, and while the Senate seems to me to chat along, serene, sure and as beautiful as ever, the lookouts in the press gallery swear they can see signs of commotion in the depths of even the most dignified legislative body on earth. What is the matter? Let's double on our track and see if we can see.

The White House still is the storm center. We supposed this to be due to the fact that the President was the President, but the friends of the Senate complain that Theodore Roosevelt is more than President. He is the President. The President is a good deal more than the executive head of the government; he is a powerful branch of the Congress. His friends reply that the Constitution made him a part of the Legislature when it provided that he might recommend legislation. That is so. But the Constitution does not say that the President may compel legislation, and the President is compelling legislation.

"Now," say the friends of the Senate, "such encroachment by the Executive upon the legislative branch of the government is a crack in the Constitution."

They are right. This is a crack in the Constitution. But it isn't a new crack. President McKinley worked through this crack. So did Lincoln. All Presidents from as far back as the first Adams have compelled legislation; and all over the country governors and mayors are called upon to "jam bills through" legislatures and councils, and they do "jam em through," and wherever they do that, there we have executive encroachment upon the legislative branch of government. It is too bad, but this crack is as old and as wide as the crack in the Liberty Bell at Philadelphia.

But who cares? You do, and some constitutional scholars may; but our United States Senators don't. They encroach themselves. The Senate is forever interfering with the President, encroaching upon his purely executive functions. Nor is that all. The State bosses in the United States Senate are the very men who call upon their governors at home to encroach upon their legislatures, to "jam bills through." The only one among them all that has a clean record in this respect is Senator Aldrich, and in Rhode Island his Legislature has encroached upon the Governor to such an extent that the Governor there is powerless, absolutely, except as he happens also to belong to the boss. These State bosses rule in "their States, and they hold their seats in "our Senate by encroaching upon both the executive and legislative branches of all government, city, State and national. They are themselves the biggest crack of all in our constitutional form of government, and for no constitution provided for a boss, and yet there they are: Aldrich, Platt, Elkins, etc. President Roosevelt back into his herd, but his whip was too short for others, so he went up to the White House and gave the President a list. The President sent for the members on a list, and he used his whip. What is a whip?

Patronage. Other things, too. The President has many resources—facts, arguments, reason, the authority of the leadership of his party, and he relies mainly upon these, of course. But the friends of the Senate charge that he uses also the appointive power of the President to compel Congressmen to vote as they don't want to vote. The charge is true. Each case that is reported is confused by conflicting testimony, and contradiction, and, indeed, any one case must give a false impression. The truth is all that we are after, however, and it is true that the President does use offices, directly or indirectly, to influence votes in Congress on administrative measures. Is this the whole truth? Let's ask the President.

First, he says, such cases are few. They stick up in local knowledge, and nothing is heard of the good appointments. And in proportion to the great total of (some 25,000) vacancies filled each year, the "bad appointments" are very few. The President is withdrawing from politics more and more classes of offices, and the civil service is being steadily improved. He believes sincerely that he is giving good government.

Second, the President is not the sole appointive power. The Constitution provides that the President appoints and removes officers, but that he must be aided by the Senate. The size of the country, and the number of places to be filled, render it impossible for the President to examine personally, or even carefully, into all candidates. So he relies mainly upon the Senators, as he should; and as the Constitution contemplated. And he advises also with the Representatives, as he should. But the Senators and Representatives have come to look upon his appointments as their graft. There has grown up in the Senate a custom or "courtesy" which enables any one Senator at will to hold up a nomination by the President, and this to a large extent, turns over to the Senators for each State the appointive power of the President for that State. The President has to make "deals" with them to get his appointments confirmed; and to get his bills through the Senate, he must appoint enough of their men to keep out of a general fight.

Here is the situation, then. How does it work? Take an example: The people of Chicago set out some ten years ago to clean up their Council. They did it pretty well. But the city ringsters, beaten in the city, retreated to the State Legislature for support. The Chicago reformers followed and fought them there. And they won with Deneen for Governor. But in order to win they had to meet and beat the "Federal bunch," as they call that an autocracy was "not so bad as people think." The convenience isn't a safe criterion for a representative democracy. Dispatch isn't what we are after; is it? As I understand it, we are trying for self-government, free and freely representative, and "our House of Representatives is neither."

"Then make it so," says the President, in effect. "That is your business; not mine. I am as much a reformer as ever, but I am also the responsible head of a great nation, and I must accept the machinery as I find it. Oh, I must improve it here and there, as I can and I do, but my first and my almost sufficient duty is to make it turn out good goods. This is job enough for one man. If you think the House as it is organized is not a fit instrument for a President to use, reform it, you, who gave it to me."

There is a just rebuke for us in that. If our representatives aren't what they should be, we ought to send them out for defeat those Congressmen who ought to be defeated if they are all tied up in job lots and voted in a combine? Suppose the President, having recommended his legislation, would wait—say no more, making no deals—till Congress had voted; then suppose that with the poll of voters in his hand he should appeal to us to defeat those who in his judgment were not representative, and to reelect those only who were, wouldn't we reform that House of Representatives?

"But you might not," says the President. (I am not quoting his language; that is not permitted.)

They have done it wherever that method has been tried," I answered, citing Chicago and Wisconsin, for examples.

"Even so, that course would take time, and meanwhile, what about the canal, and the other things that must be done?"

You see, it comes down finally to a question of the relative importance of the many things to be done. I'd rather make our government represent us than dig the canal; the President would rather dig the canal and regulate so that the canal would be his "deal" with the Speaker and I condemn it.

But the Senate doesn't reason that way. The Senate doesn't object to deals, nor to the House combine, nor to the deal with the Speaker. The Senate makes deals. The steering committee of the Senate has made deals with the boss and ring of the House combine. That's what the House combine was built for—to make it work with the Senate. So the President's deal with the combine is not the real reason for the terror here of "that dangerous man," the President. What else is there?

The friends of the Senate charge that the President upholds the House combine with patronage. This also is true. The President is carrying out his part of his deal with all the force of his forceful personality. When the Speaker began to push through the administration programme, a large number of the Republican members turned insurgents. You have heard a lot about them. They joined with the Democrats to beat the rule, and to the deal with the House combine. The Speaker applied his whip. He drove some of his "wild horses" back into his herd, but his whip was too short for others, so he went up to the White House and gave the President a list. The President sent for the members on a list, and he used his whip. What is a whip?

Patronage. Other things, too. The President has many resources—facts, arguments, reason, the authority of the leadership of his party, and he relies mainly upon these, of course. But the friends of the Senate charge that he uses also the appointive power of the President to compel Congressmen to vote as they don't want to vote. The charge is true. Each case that is reported is confused by conflicting testimony, and contradiction, and, indeed, any one case must give a false impression. The truth is all that we are after, however, and it is true that the President does use offices, directly or indirectly, to influence votes in Congress on administrative measures. Is this the whole truth? Let's ask the President.

First, he says, such cases are few. They stick up in local knowledge, and nothing is heard of the good appointments. And in proportion to the great total of (some 25,000) vacancies filled each year, the "bad appointments" are very few. The President is withdrawing from politics more and more classes of offices, and the civil service is being steadily improved. He believes sincerely that he is giving good government.

Senators Cullom and Hopkins. Speaker Cannon and the other Federal jobholders in the State of Illinois and, in a measure, Illinois have restored representative government and the old rings, city and State, have little more than the Federal offices to keep them going. "Now, why is it," said a Chicago man in Washington the other day, "why is it that every time we throw a dead politician out on the scrap heap, the President picks him up, and puts him in a postoffice or something as good?"

Why, indeed? How does the President see it? He says he can't know all about the various Chicago candidates for an office in Chicago, so he takes the advice of the Senators and Congressmen from out there. The Chicago reformer can't understand why the President doesn't consult him. But the President answers that the people of Chicago and Illinois don't send the Chicago reformer to Congress to advise him; they send Messrs. Cullom and Hopkins and Cannon and ex-boss Lorimer, and these, the accredited representatives of their State, was "Doc" Jamison or Fred Busse appointed.

Another rebuke for us; all of us. For such instances are troubling good citizens all over the country. Every State and nearly every district probably knows of appointments not from the scrap heap, perhaps, because not many communities have heaps of political scrap; but we all have rings and we see the President preferring links in the good mesh. Is it to be wondered at when we consider what our Senators represent at home? You see, we really are asking the President to give us better men than we give him. Is that reasonable? Isn't he right? Isn't it up to us to reform our cities, and finally our States, so that we may send to Washington Senators and Representatives who naturally will advise the President to appoint good men to Federal offices?

Of course, we ought to help him more than we do. I think we are people, who send here some of the Senators some of us do send, are more to blame than he is. But that doesn't let the President out; not entirely. He makes some appointments which he himself calls pretty bad. Why does he do that? He does it to keep some Senators in line on his legislation. That's politics. That is a political method, and bad and not necessary. For suppose again, as we supposed in the case of the House, suppose he should recommend his bills, then wait—say no more, making no deals, distributing no patronage—till the House had voted; then suppose that he should appeal to us to defeat those who in his judgment were not representative, and to reelect those only who were, wouldn't we reform that House of Representatives?

Because he wants to "accomplish something," and this process would be too long, too slow. It seems to me that the starting of such a movement would be accomplishing something. But the President has a right to choose what he shall try, and a general national reform movement, including all the cities and States in the United States? Why doesn't the President do that?

He may come to it before he is done, for the opposition to him here is very bitter; it is very obstinate, very obstinate; very obstinate of victory. But principally, it is bitter.

Why is it so bitter? This is what we started out to determine. We have decided that it is not because he is a menace to the Constitution; nor because he makes deals; and it cannot be because he uses patronage in Congress. For the Senators also take his patronage; they fight for it; they rob their Congressmen to get more of it; and they sell their votes on the bills in return for the offices with which they pay "our" political leaders at home for delivering "our" votes to them. No, it is we who object to these political methods, not the enemies of the President, not the friends of the Senate. They use them. What is the matter then?

The secret must lie in the things he is trying to get done. What are they? They are many, but among them are three pieces of legislation which his special interests are opposing: the Statehood bill, the Philippine tariff bill, and a bill to regulate railroad rates. Now I don't know the merits of these bills, not yet; nor do I care much about them. The point for the present is that the President thinks they are in our interest and the friends of the Senate think we think so. They believe we are behind the President. Whether we are or not is another question. This is certain:

"They" fear that we are. What else can be the meaning of the great Washington question: "Is the President's popularity waning?" They think the President represents meaning you and me and the man in the street—all of us, who don't want anything but a square deal. And that's what's the matter in Washington, I think. Not alone that the President is President, but that he is "our" President; not that he is more than President; not that he is a boss. Bosses are not bitter about bosses. The trouble seems to be that the President is bawling them in our interest; he is trying to make them represent us a little.

USHERED in by the linen jackets, which proved so popular a fashion last summer and which bid fair to be as popular this coming summer, are jackets of lace, or of embroidery and lace, or of linen and lace—even of two or three different kinds of lace.

Some of them are barely more than deep shawl collars; so, if you're one of those collars laid by ever since the time of big sleeves, get it out and rip the lace stitches carefully apart in two places on each side, following the same general lines as the sleeve slashings on a baby's nightgale.

The most useful shape of all is neither long nor short, but is made, instead, in that pretty little length which goes by the name of military. Worn over a white or light-colored gown of linen or silk or wool, it makes the prettiest sort of a little wrap for all sorts of spring and summer affairs; while, mounted over a heavy silk or broadcloth, it is one of the prettiest of evening wraps for wearing now.

There's nothing about it which bars it from being made by any one who is in the least bit clever with her needle—there's practically no fitting to do, for the jacket hangs loose from the shoulders. The sleeves follow the same flowing lines, and are finished in elbow length, as, in fact, are the sleeves of practically every style of lace jacket.

Renaissance lace may be inset with oval medallions of batiste embroidery; with other bits of the embroidery shaped to follow the lines of the collarless neck; or one of the splendid imitations of Irish crochet lace may be trimmed with those heavy French-Irish motifs.

Little jackets of batiste, trimmed lavishly with lace, furnish another opportunity for the use of hand embroidery. Those jackets with loose fronts and postilion backs are among the newest of all.

Black lace jackets are most effective used as part of that interesting treatment of transparent black, made up over a light-colored lining.

With the present-day fashion of putting heavy and light laces together, the frailest, most cobwebby of black laces may be used upon the skirt (the material cut away under it, of course); with a jacket made of two or more heavy laces being practically the only trimming for the waist.

READY MADE ANTIQUES THAT

NOW and then some part of a cherished collection of antique objects is pronounced spurious, to the dismay of collectors and the damage of reputations.

This is scarcely to be wondered at when one considers the extent of the industry of making to order almost any sort of art antique or curio that may be desired.

Europe is full of such factories. A number are in Italy, where Florence is the headquarters of this counterfeiting trade. Vienna is the home of others; some flourish in southern Russia, while French and Belgian workmen turn out "genuine" old masters, ancient pottery, statuary and what not at an astonishing rate.

So cleverly executed are some of these counterfeits that they deceive expert collectors, and are readily purchased at exorbitant prices by money kings with a mania for the antique. American buyers are the especial prey of unscrupulous makers and dealers in "faked" art.

Truth is beauty, beauty truth;
The all I know and all I seek to know.

ONE will not find this sentiment carved over the portals of an "antique" factory. All that these artists—for they are artists, and exceptionally clever ones, in their way—seek to know is how to embellish a painted or carved falsehood to a deceptive semblance to truth.

In these days the collector may fill a museum with paintings, pottery, marble, ceramics, scarabs from the tombs of Egypt and frescoes of old Italian masters—all stamped with certificates of age and antiquity, but all manufactured, perhaps, a few months previously in the "fake" factories of Florence.

Not many years ago about fifty objects that had long held the veneration of antiquarians were removed from the South Kensington Museum of London as "forgeries, quasi-forgeries, or worthless."

Fifty years ago regular factories for forged sculpture were in operation in Rome. There were made heads of gods, forearms, feet of satyrs, mutilated torsos and other objects according to the demand.

Highly polished in parts, and stained with a tinged liquid of ingenious composition, they certainly appeared genuine when dug up from mounds or ruins by shepherds in the neighborhood of the cities.

Half a century ago such objects were imported into England by the score; and doubtless they occupy places of honor in not a few cherished collections in America.

Supplying "15th Century" Frescoes

A number of skilled workmen in Florence are kept busy supplying the demand for fifteenth century frescoes after Pintoricchio and other masters of the period.

These reproductions are carefully broken into fragments in such a way as to suggest that they have been torn from the walls of old buildings, and are eagerly purchased by tourists, especially those from this side of the Atlantic.

Tourists, in fact, form the constant prey of the "antique" forger. Entire communities along the Tiber, the Nile and the Jordan derive a livelihood from this gullibility.

Before the very eyes of the unsuspecting traveler, innocent looking country people will dig up objects that appear to have lain buried for centuries.

Oh, yes; the finder will sell his find, but nothing must be said to government officials about it.

So the delighted purchaser goes off with his "antique," while the guileless peasant calmly buries another specimen of the same kind for the benefit of the next tourist who comes along.

A remarkable instance of this deception of experts is furnished by the so-called "Tiara of Saitapharnes," which was purchased by the Paris Louvre for $20,000.

Recently it was discovered that this remarkable specimen of the goldsmith's art was manufactured by a jeweler of Odessa—southern Russia is regarded as a hotbed of art forgers.

No intention to deceive, however, animated this particular jeweler; he simply carried out the work after designs furnished him, and, while he knew he was making something that had all the appearance of an ancient piece, did not know for what purpose it was ordered.

An Italian artist of the middle of the last century attained such remarkable success in duplicating ancient terra cotta works that specimens of his skill may be found today in many European museums labeled with the great names of the period of Florentine Renaissance.

$2000 for a Fake Antique Bust

Discovered in his boyhood by a former coal dealer, the expert was put at work turning out replicas of the great masters, while the employer turned antiquarian, "dug up" and sold the specimens at large prices.

A refined bust of Saverio "in the Florentine manner" was "discovered" about forty years ago, and was at once purchased by an expert collector for $2000.

It was placed on exhibition in Italy and made a considerable sum of money for its owner, later finding a resting place in a London museum, without being suspected. Not until the master confessed and produced his model was the fraud revealed.

Another product of this genius, a lifelike, almost breathing bust of Benvenuto, the sixteenth century Florentine poet, was purchased by the Louvre for $3200—the maker got $80 for his work.

"Ancient" Chinese and Greek pottery is being produced at an astonishing rate in Europe, certain factories in Belgium supplying a constant demand.

In Holland some years ago falsely-decorated delft could be found in hundreds of cottages, awaiting the coming of the ill-informed tourist. Fake majolica could be purchased as original almost anywhere. Sevres has been continually imitated and false Palissy ware has deceived many experts.

DECEIVE SCIENTISTS AND MONEY KINGS

Ivory carving affords a fruitful field for the maker of counterfeit "antiques." Not long ago a Liege dealer worked off upon the Belgian government for $4000 a supicious "Diptychon" but when the deception was discovered he was forced to refund the money.

Among fine specimens of "ancient" ivory the unsuspecting are apt to be offered the "Ouvrantes." This is a little statuette of the which, when opened, discloses carved figures on the interior panels.

The statuette is supposed to belong to the fourteenth century, and for that reason is eagerly purchased upon assurance that are the original, which is in Paris.

Almost anywhere on the continent of "genuine" paintings by old masters may be seen in a few days. "Aging" a picture is a well-known art; signing the name of a celebrated artist is a common fraud.

Some of them, called "portmanauts," are made up by skillful copyists from ancient line canvases.

From one a head or a figure may be taken, another an arm, from a third details of bodies and so on. A well known "portmanaut" is "St. Simon," and attributed to Rubens, is alleged to have been made up in such a way.

"Antique" Scarabs Made to Order

In this picture, two figures of saints from Sarto's "The Madonna Enthroned with Child and Saints"; several other figures from "The Brazen Serpent," by Rubens; and "The Repose," by Titian, the right arm of the statue, which is a prominent feature of the copied.

Almost anywhere along the Nile one may find up so-called "genuine" scarabs—those amulets, carved to represent beetles, the popular with Egyptians long before Jesus was sold into captivity.

Fastened about the neck of every mummy Pharaoh so far discovered has been a precious stone.

Thousands of others, less valuable, have been found, but counterfeit scarabs manufactured by wholesale and eagerly sold by the gullible tourist.

These counterfeits are made of wood, stone and precious metal, are cunningly aged and stained to simulate old age. The rarely, if ever, doubt their authenticity.

Some years ago a native workman from the excavations at Thebes asked a noted Egyptologist, who was returning to Paris for a visit, back a certain antiquarian book. When returned he brought the book to the library.

Shortly afterward the Egyptian scientist a beautiful scarab, similar to one had been found on the heart of a Pharaoh, and bearing the extraordinarily rare cartouche.

A Forged "Strozzi Hercules"

At once the Egyptologist became excited and desired to purchase the precious figure. "I will give it to you," calmly replied the workman, "because I made it through the book you brought me."

Some time later a widely-known German antiquarian was exhibiting to a friend a marvelous hitherto unknown scarab that had come into his possession.

"We are in luck," smilingly remarked the friend, "because we each have a specimen of skill of a man I know."

Numismatists are often made victims of the cleverness of counterfeiters. The same is the domain of engraved gems.

The celebrated gem, "The Strozzi Hercules," now in the British Museum, has beside it a copy well executed forgery.

Seen beside the genuine, the spurious one detected, but were the counterfeit sent out into the world it would doubtless have a long career without discovery.

Some years ago a Florentine dealer in cottas, bronzes, mosaics, imitation antiques and other similar objects, sent broadcast a circular upon the subject.

"I have," he stated, "exquisite reproductions of the quaint and lovely vases, fountains, pieces and busts of the Neapolitan, Pompeian, Grecian styles and masterpieces."

"Any work, even to the extent of reproducing mutilated Grecian or other originals, can be fully executed."

"There is a firm here whose reproductions are perfect, even to color, tone and smell of the original. This firm has a 'Perseus' in terra cotta which deceived several connoisseurs and is one of the best achievements."

Counterfeit Gems

"There are, in addition, amulets, medals, busts, vases, doorways, seats and knickknacks—too numerous to mention."

This man made no secret of the fact that he conducted a gushing fountain of modern imitations. Very many others are not so honest, and their spurious wares upon the ill-informed are generally sold as genuine.

The extent of this business throughout the world is almost beyond conception.

Naturally, the art of the counterfeiter has become an extensive field among jewelers, and among precious stones.

Very often some celebrated old gem is imitated with flint glass, tinted with lead and orange oxides. Such stones may be detected by weight, being heavier than the genuine.

A more elaborate plan of deception is the use of genuine stone upon a base of imitation. A sandwich a piece of spurious between two pieces of genuine.

The manufacture of false pearls has become an ancient glass has been carried to a high degree of perfection.

At the Paris Exposition of 1900 a jeweler exhibited four strings of pearls, one of which, stated, was false. He issued a challenge to detect the false set by any test known to him, and none, it is said, could do so.
